Hunt For Kidnapers Concentrated In Salt Lake City

20 OR MORE BILLS FOUND BY OFFICERS

Believed Notes Passed by Two Men and Women in Cadillac Sedan

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 8.—(UP)—Anticipating a "break" in the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping case, department of justice agents congregated here today after learning that a number of ransom bills had been passed.

L. D. Wines, in charge of the local department of justice office, refused to deny or confirm reports that ransom bills had been found. Likewise, he refused to comment on reports that agents from other sections had been rushed here.

From other sources, however, it was learned that a number of ransom notes—"20 or more," according to a reliable source—had been passed in Salt Lake City in the last two days.

The trail, apparently led from a Cadillac sedan that aroused suspicions Thursday at Brigham City, Utah. Three men and a woman—an attractive blonde—stopped for gasoline. Their actions caused the service station attendant to report to the state highway patrol.

First reports were that the group passed a $10 ransom note. Police confirmed the report. Department of justice agents denied it, and later police confirmed the denial.

It generally was thought, in view of subsequent developments, that the party did pass a ransom bill. One unconfirmed report said a few amount of ransom money had appeared in local banks, enough to indicate the entire gang that kidnaped 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser had spent at least a day in Utah.

Whether the gang actually had been in Salt Lake City could not be determined. It was pointed out that ransom bills passed in other sections of the state probably would find their way here since Salt Lake City is financial headquarters for the state.

It was learned also that J. D. Connolly, department of justice agent who had complete charge of the Weyerhaeuser case in Washington, arrived here early today. Local headquarters refused to confirm the report.

He was said to have flown here from the northwest accompanied by his chief aide, whose name was not learned.

Federal men remained in constant touch with the local police. Wines spent more time at the police station than at his office or elsewhere.

Wines would divulge no information, officially or otherwise, but it was learned he expects a break within two or three days. Some sources even went so far as to say the entire case may crack over the week end.

STATE SENATE GIVES OKAY TO OLD AGE BILL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 8.—(UP)—The only piece of important social legislation to receive encouragement during this session of California's lawmakers moved toward the senate today when the upper house committee on finance recommended passage of the Hornblower old age security bill.

Approved in the assembly after long debates during which the liberal faction sought to provide a $50-a-month pension for the aged, the bill was given an excellent chance to pass the senate.

It would amend the present old age security act by reducing the age minimum from 70 to 65 and setting the benefits at a maximum of $35 and minimum of $25 a month. Average payments at present amount to only $20 a month. As authorized, estimated it would cost the state approximately $12,000,000 additional each biennium.

Both houses defeated proposals to set $50 as a monthly pension on the ground that such an increase would necessitate the levying of heavy taxes.

KIDNAPED CUBAN RELEASED

HAVANA, Cuba, June 8.—(UP)—Antonio San Miguel, aged millionaire kidnaped Wednesday for $250,000 ransom, was released this morning and has returned to his Naranjo home, his attorney announced.

San Miguel is known as Cuba's second richest man. It was not known whether the ransom was paid.

SANTA ANA C. OF C. IN WIRE URGES GOVERNOR MERRIAM TO VETO TIDELANDS OIL BILL

CLAIMING that rights of Orange county to revenue from whippstock drilling into tideland ocean pools were not recognized in the bill legalizing such drilling, the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today wrote Gov. Frank F. Merriam, urging him to veto the bill.

The Chamber action followed yesterday's report in the Register of the gigantic deal closed by the City of Huntington Beach with Hancock, whereby the beach city would give royalty payments on the drilling of 52 slant line tideland wells, amounting to 3 per cent on each well.

The chamber request to Governor Merriam urged the veto in order to permit time for further investigation into the rights of Orange county taxpayers in regard to the subject of tideland drilling.

Assembly bill No. 1854, which went to the governor for his signature this week, would permit drilling of wells into the rich ocean pools at any point, and set a minimum royalty payment to the state of 16 2-3 per cent.

The city of Huntington Beach stands to receive payments amounting to approximately $1,000,000 yearly from the 52 wells which it is reported the above three oil companies will drill in the Huntington Beach field, between Twenty-third street and the west city limits. The bill does not

Ultimatum Sent China By Japanese

Given Until Next Tuesday to Meet Demands Which Will Halt Action

TOKYO, June 8.—(UP)—Next Tuesday will be the decisive day in Japan's newest dispute with the Chinese government, it was understood today.

The Japanese high army command in Northern China, after a meeting at Tientsin, has given the government until then to comply with demands intended to halt alleged anti-Japanese activities in the area.

Dispatches, including those of Japanese correspondents, from Tientsin and Shanghai indicated that China was complying with the demands, and that there would be no necessity for military action.

However, statements by several army men in Tientsin, appearing daily, pointed to a determination by the Japanese military authorities that there shall be wide changes in present relations. There were indications that further pressure will be exerted on the Chinese government to do as Japan wishes generally.

Attacks on Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese generalissimo, continued to be the keynote of Tientsin statements.

Arrangements were progressing, it was said, for the removal of Chinese army headquarters for Hopei Province—which includes Tientsin and Peiping, the old capital—to Paotingfu, to the south. The Tientsin branch of the Kuomintang, the government political party, also is to be transferred to Paotingfu. Both removals are Chinese concessions to Japan, intended to settle the Japanese cause for complaint.

IL DUCE WARNS GREAT BRITAIN TO "KEEP OUT"

CAGLIARI, Sardinia, June 8.—(UP)—Benito Mussolini plainly told Great Britain today that Italy's course in Abyssinia is for Italy alone to decide, and that he would not be stopped.

Addressing troops of the Sabauda division, after he piloted a three-motored seaplane 230 miles across the Tyrrhenian sea from Rome, he said of England:

"We will imitate to the letter those who presume to be our school masters. They have shown that it was necessary to create or defend an empire, they did not take into consideration at all the opinions of the world."

Italy, he said, had firmly decided to accept no coercion in its dealings with Abyssinia.

Only yesterday, in the British house of commons, speakers of all three main parties denounced Italy's course in its dispute with Abyssinia.

The men whom Mussolini addressed today are about to sail for East Africa, to wait during the equatorial rainy season for his orders as to war.

STRIKES END TODAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—(UP)—The week-old planing mill and cabinet makers strike, and the seven weeks-old warehousemen's union strike at the Alameda warehouse of the California Packing corporation, ended today.

Approximately 400 striking planing mill workers will return to work Monday pending negotiations to settle their grievances over wages and hours.

The warehousemen's union called off pickets on the packing plant when the men agreed to work, warehousemen's union officials said.

SAM PARKS, PITTSBURGH PRO, WINS OPEN GOLF TITLE WITH 299; JIMMY THOMSON SECOND

AKMONT, Pa., June 8.—(UP)—Sam Parks, Pittsburgh golfer who turned professional only a year ago, won the 39th National Open Golf championship today, scoring 299 for the 72-hole tournament over America's most difficult course.

Parks is a University of Pittsburgh graduate and one of the greatest putters in the game. Parks posted his winning aggregate of 299 early in the afternoon, and, one by one, all players having even the most remote chance of passing him failed to hold their shots in line.

Parks nearest rival was Jimmy Thomson, the long-distance slugger from Long Beach, Cal., who came in with an aggregate of 301. These two professionals were tied at 223 at the end of the third round, but Thomson missed par by six strokes this afternoon to finish two strokes back of the home town boy whose victory delighted the gallery of some 10,000.

Walter Hagen, twice former winner of the title, finished with a 76 for a total of 302. Hagen was the last of the stars to finish. Hagen had needed only a 36 on the back nine to tie, and a 35 would have won for him, but he could manage no more than a 39.

LOCAL COLLEGE AND H. S. GRADS HEAR SERMONS

FINAL preparations were being completed today for baccalaureate services, to be conducted for both the Santa Ana Junior College and High School graduating classes, at the First M. E. church auditorium tomorrow.

The Junior College service is scheduled for 4:30 p. m. and the High School event for 7:30. An "overflow" high school baccalaureate service will be conducted at the same hour in Spurgeon Memorial church.

Prof. William Ballentine Henley, M. A., M. S., P. A., LL.B., of the University of Southern California, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the Junior College graduates. His subject is announced as "Beautiful Mud."

The Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon before the high school graduates in the evening. "What Is That In Thine Hand?" will be his subject. The Rev. Cecil M. Aker will speak at the "overflow" service.

President Dana King Hammond, of the Junior College, will preside over the college baccalaureate program, where music will be furnished by the Junior College Capella choir. The general public is invited to this program, it is stated, whereas admission to the High School program in the afternoon is by ticket.

DICTATORS POWER GIVEN TO LAVAL

PARIS, June 8.—(UP)—The senate today assented to the granting of full emergency powers to Premier Pierre Laval, giving him a vote of confidence of 233 to 15.

Thus Laval was embarked on a five months semi-dictatorial regime with emergency powers to "save the franc" and strengthen the country's finances.

The chamber of deputies extended the powers by a vote of confidence of 324 to 150 early this morning.

The senate applauded when Laval promised that during the parliamentary vacation the cabinet would decree no financial reforms without consulting the chamber and chamber finance committees.

CHICAGO SKY-RIDE TOWER DEMOLISHED

CHICAGO, June 8.—(UP)—The west tower of the century of progress sky-ride, an 1800-ton skeleton of steel and concrete, crashed to the ground at dawn today.

Chicagoans, speculating for months over the best manner of tearing down the $1,200,000 towers, had no warning of the wrecking operations.

Century of progress officials decided on a "private show" for safety's sake, fearing spectators might break through police lines and overrun the 1,500 foot danger zone.

The first blast, echoing over the lake, ripped loose the guy wires. The green tower shuddered. After the next charge the tower swayed to the east and began falling slowly, cutting an unbroken arc. Sixty feet out from its natural position it was caught by the pull of gravity and the lower elevator shaft of plate steel broke away.

GOVERNOR VETOES REVENUE MEASURE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 8.—(UP)—The first of two major revenue bond measures was before the assembly today carrying the veto of Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

The Nielsen bill was returned to the lower house last night after the governor had waited until almost the deadline to take action.

In his veto message, the governor said that a section in the Nielsen bill providing for issuance of revenue bonds to finance water and power utilities by means of a majority vote was "objectionable."

25 Names On Papers Held "Irregular"

Time Limit Expires as Attorney Unable to Render Quick Decision

Twenty-five signatures appended to petitions asking for the recall of Mayor A. T. Smith, of San Clemente, were declared irregular by City Clerk William Holmes last night, as the hour for fixing the date of the recall election passed without official action being taken by the city council.

Councilman Earl Von Bonhorst, whose supporters are backing the movement against Mayor Smith, protested following the meeting of the city council, claiming that he was not getting a "fair deal" from the administration in the recall matter.

The trouble regarding the election began when Mayor Smith requested a report from City Clerk Holmes regarding his investigation of the 77 signatures attached to the petition. Holmes stated that he had found 25 irregularities concerning occupations and addresses of signers, and asked the city attorney, Den Acres, for a report on the legality of the manner in which the petition was signed.

Acres asked for more time in which to consider the matter, which was granted by chair, evoking a protest from Councilman Von Bonhorst, who contended that the additional time could not be granted, as Holmes had had a legal 15 days in which to check the signatures.

His protest was short-lived, as Smith promptly called him out of order, and requested a move for adjournment from the council. Councilman Monroe Thurman moved for an adjournment and was seconded by the mayor, and the council adjourned sine die.

Asks Fair Play

Supporters of Von Bonhorst in the audience protested what they termed the "illegal action" of the council, following the meeting, and Von Bonhorst issued a statement, in which he declared he "wanted the facts of the case known," and asked for a "square deal." He claimed that the city clerk had failed in his duty by not checking the names in the 15 days time allowed by law.

Proceedings against Mayor Smith were started following a hectic meeting of the council a month ago, during which the mayor called Von Bonhorst out of order three times, and dismissed him from office as commissioner of fire and police, charging him with ineptitude and malfeasance of duty.

Recall proceedings against Von Bonhorst are pending in the Spanish village, as petitions asking for his recall are being circulated for signatures.

No definite date for a report on the signatures on the Smith recall petitions was set last night, and the status of the entire proceedings remained in doubt, pending a report from Acres.

Purchase Riot Gun

Purchase of a bullet proof windshield with a gun port and a 20-inch barrel riot gun for the use of the San Clemente police was a single item, according to Hotchener.

Hotchener said Miss Costello throughout the separation refused to join her husband or to have any marital relations with him. After the actor learned of her "hostile" attitude last February, he cut off her allowance and informed her she would have to live on approximately $163.50 he had left in her control, his manager stated.

Hotchener denied Miss Costello's allegation that her estranged husband left the state with $375,900 in bonds and securities.

FIGHTS DIVORCE

John Barrymore, famous stage and screen star, who, through his attorney, contested the divorce suit instituted by his wife, claiming she was a two-fisted amazon and virtually held him prisoner on their yacht at one time.

BARRYMORE IN CONTEST OVER DIVORCE SUIT

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—(UP)—Dolores Costello, estranged wife of John Barrymore, was depicted in a court action today as an iron-fisted Amazon who once held her husband a virtual prisoner on their palatial yacht.

The charge was contained in an answer Henry Hotchener, Barrymore's manager and financial advisor, filed to Miss Costello's divorce suit against the dashing actor.

Hotchener, who is a co-defendant in the divorce suit which asks that he be compelled to account for his client's financial position, charged that "women guards" were employed to keep Barrymore aboard the yacht, "Infanta," the actor remained under the vigilant eye of this "guard" for some two and a half months, Hotchener declared.

He charged that Miss Costello hit upon this plan "to deprive Barrymore of his liberty on a false charge of habitual intemperance."

Barrymore finally left California to escape his wife, Hotchener further charged. He represented the actor as preferring to remain in Hollywood where he had "greater opportunity" in motion pictures but that the harassing conduct of his wife forced him to pack up and leave.

Even after he did leave, he kept his wife constantly informed of his whereabouts, but the only real contact was a single letter, according to Hotchener.

Hotchener said Miss Costello throughout the separation refused to join her husband or to have any marital relations with him. After the actor learned of her "hostile" attitude last February, he cut off her allowance and informed her she would have to live on approximately $163.50 he had left in her control, his manager stated.

SUCCESSOR TO RICHBERG NOT CHOSEN

2000 Workers to Be Dropped at Headquarters in Capital, June 16

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(UP)—NRA activity moved today at a pace reminiscent of the early days of the Gen. Hugh Johnson regime as the blue eagle flopped about in its death throes.

The house voted late yesterday to extend for nine and a half months a careless NRA: Donald R. Richberg resigned as chief of the NRA board, and organized labor set to work to revive the once proud bird.

At NRA headquarters, of 5400 workers in the commerce building, approximately 2000 employees prepared to leave government service as a result of the blue eagle's loss of the supreme court decision in the scheduled "sick chicken" case. The house, which had been waiting two weeks for the administration to formulate a plan of voluntary continuation of fair practices in industry, made short work of President Roosevelt's request for continuation of a skeletonized NRA until April 1, 1936.

Speeding the measure under a drastic limitation of debate, the house passed the 91-word extension resolution by a vote of 264 to 121. The senate, which previously had passed the Clark resolution extending NRA the same length of time, will act Monday.

Although opposition in the senate promises to be stronger, the administration was confident the approval before the recovery act expires June 16.

The resignation of Richberg, who only a few months ago was called "assistant president," was not unexpected. He previously had expressed a desire to return to private law practice. His resignation and its acceptance by Mr. Roosevelt was announced in making an exchange of correspondence.

Richberg's resignation to take effect June 16 was tendered in a letter dated June 5.

The president gave no indication of whom he will select as Richberg's successor to carry on the administration's program (or a modified voluntary NRA program). The NRA board will continue as a fact-finding agency, but will be shorn of its powers over industry.

Simultaneously with passage of the house NRA resolution, William Green, president of the American Federation, proposed a substitute for the NRA codes through federal licensing of corporations in interstate commerce.

AWAITS APPEAL

ALBANY, N. Y., June 8.—John J. Evers, general manager of the Albany Senators, today awaited setting of a date to appeal a ruling banning Edwin ("Alabama") Potts, former Sing Sing prison inmate, from organized baseball.

"We are just marking time," Evers said. "There is nothing we can do in Pitts' behalf or in the interests of the Albany club until the hearing takes place."

Will Rogers Says:

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—(To the Editor of The Register:—To read what all these critics of our country write, you would naturally think that everybody else was just sitting pretty. But France has offered their Premiership to everybody over there but Chevalier and they know he is too smart to take it. England just today traded horses right in the middle of Thames River. Half of Italy has gone to Africa with a gun on their shoulder. Japan is just looking over Chinese maps, to see where to send their army. Russia must be in some devilment, we never hear of em any more. So you see there's none of em that can point with pride to. It's just a bad time to be in the government-running business anywhere.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

ORANGE COUNTY TO BENEFIT GREATLY BY CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL OF WATER PLANS

ORANGE COUNTY concentrated its efforts today to make the most of the advantages offered in the congressional house flood control committee's willingness to appropriate $12,455,000 for a water program on the Santa Ana river.

Following The Register's report, Elliott plan, When the project is approved it doubtless will be in the hands of Army engineers, who will be in charge of the details of the project. It is up to us now to show these engineers that the logical plan for this section is the Orange county flood control plan.

A careful check today showed that the general project approved by the congressional committee was not the Elliott plan, which has been submitted to the PWA by the board of supervisors, but is a plan submitted to the government about a year ago by a governor.

"The bright spot in the entire congressional committee report," Supervisor W. C. Jerome told The Register today, "is its willingness to spend about the same amount of money on the Santa Ana river as it called for in the

Big Program Tonight Brings S. A. Housing Show To End

INTEREST AT PEAK: GIFTS TO BE AWARDED

Crowds of interested homemakers jammed the American Legion hall here last night at the Register Better Housing exhibit, which will be climaxed with a great show and program tonight featuring the awarding of hundreds of dollars worth of valuable prizes, concluded the second day of the big show with an attendance to date of more than 2000 persons.

More than 2000 persons took advantage of unusual opportunity to get first-hand information on how they can benefit under terms of the National Housing Act yesterday and last night. The crowds milled around the interesting feature displays put on by more than 25 concerns, expressing great interest in the exhibit of everything that goes into the making of a comfortable and beautiful home.

Starting at 4 o'clock this afternoon, a special program of entertainment was to be given, to continue throughout the afternoon and evening. From 4 to 6 o'clock Hosmer's Hawaiian group was to play. Clyde Musgrove's dance orchestra is to furnish lively music throughout the afternoon and evening, and during the evening Vera Merilyn Getty's "Talent Tots" will entertain with song and dance. The group to appear tonight includes June Tway, Nye Martin, Mary Ellen Soures, Edna Squires, Mary Leinberger and Louise Harmon.

Last night the speaker of the evening was Robert Hatfield, secretary of the Orange County Builders Association and executive vice chairman of the Santa Ana FHA committee. Betty Goble appeared in dance numbers, accompanied by Galene Goble. The major prize last night, a $59.50 Apex ironer, given by Maroney's, was won by Henry Faust.

List Major Prizes

The major prizes of the show will be given away tonight at about 9 o'clock. These prizes include the following:

A free roofing job. A complete roofing job will be given away, absolutely free, and without any reservations. The roof will be of first class CertainTeed Products Roofing materials, and will be installed, either of composition shingles or of flat roof construction, to fit the needs of the structure.

A day and night automatic water heater. This heater, which by the Knox at $66.50, will be given by the Knox and Stout hardware store, at 420 East Fourth street, to one of the lucky numbers of the Better Housing Show audience.

Mixmaster. Cutlers, at 112 East Fourth street, will give a Mixmaster complete, which retails at $21.75, as one of the show awards.

Electric Refrigerator. Harwood's, 213 North Broadway, will give away on the night of June 8, a Westinghouse Refrigerator, which sells for $289.50. It will carry the full Westinghouse five-year guarantee, and all the other Westinghouse features, including the dual automatic control, forced draft cooling, all steel construction, and super-sealed insulation.

Architectural services. The Barr Lumber company will give away as a special award $100 worth of architectural services, to be done by one of several local architects or designers, whose work will be displayed in the Barr exhibit.

Tonight is the last night of the great housing show, which Federal Housing Administration officials say is the most section. It is an opportunity which you cannot afford to miss. Be sure to attend the exhibit tonight. You may be one of the fortunate persons who will win one of the valuable prizes.

WIFE KIDNAPED AT GUN POINT IN PLACENTIA

An inter-racial kidnaping, whereby the Mexican wife of a Filipino resident of Placentia was taken from her home early yesterday afternoon, was being investigated by deputies from the office of Sheriff Logan Jackson today.

A warrant charging kidnaping was issued today, and search is being made for a man and woman who are alleged to have kidnaped Mrs. Trinidad Lopez Coloma, Mexican wife of Bob Coloma, a Filipino resident of Placentia.

The alleged kidnaping was said to have been witnessed by Sam Ueale, who reported the matter to Chief of Police Gus Barnes of Placentia.

The kidnapers, the report said, were Mrs. Loucia Lopez, or Mrs. C. R. Johnson, of Peoria, Arizona, a sister of Mrs. Coloma, and an unidentified Mexican man. They were alleged to have forced Mrs. Coloma to accompany them at the point of a gun, departing in a green coupe, supposedly for Arizona.

An aunt of Mrs. Coloma was reported to be residing in Rivera and was being sought today by Deputy Sheriff James Workman, while roads to Arizona via Yuma and Blythe were being watched for the kidnap party.

ORANGE COUNTY MEN SPEAK AT AVOCADO MEET

Harold E. Wahlberg, Orange County Farm Advisor, was the featured speaker at last night's meeting of the Avocado Department of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, held in Whittier, showing pictures of avocado culture in Florida.

Wahlberg also spoke concerning different orchard soil and climatic conditions as found in the competing state, and gave a brief resume of the industry in Orange county and California.

The program, which was given by the avocado department of the Orange County Farm Bureau, was under the direction of Ray Frantz, of La Habra. Frantz introduced H. H. Gardner, of Villa Park, who spoke concerning his method of erecting windbreaks, instead of growing them, which he says constitutes a real saving to the grower.

Wendell Hill, of Santa Ana, also spoke, discussing the progress of attempts in Orange county to secure a federated marketing plan for avocados. The plans are in the progress of formation at the present time, Hill said, but have not been definitely outlined as yet.

Attending from Orange county, in addition to the speakers, were A. G. Finley, Newport Road; James Tuffree, Placentia; Walter West, Tustin; H. E. Marsh, La Habra; A. C. Pickering, Yorba Linda; J. J. Carter, Yorba Linda; and Cecil Marks, field secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

West and McKinney Named Attorneys For Federal HOLC

Appointment of West and McKinney, Santa Ana law firm, as legal representatives of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, was announced today in a communication from Horace Russell, of Washington, D. C., general counsel for HOLC, which contained the formal appointment from the federal government.

The local law firm are among a few in the state so appointed as "foreclosure attorneys" for the Home Owners Loan Corporation, which has approximately $3,000,000 loaned in Orange county.

FRIENDS ENTERTAINED

GARDEN GROVE, June 8.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williams entertained with a dinner party recently at their home on West Chapman avenue. A color scheme in tones of yellow was carried out in the table decorations with tall tapers and a centerpiece of flowers. Places were laid for Mrs. R. M. Fay, Miss Ethel Archer and J. R. Skewis, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson and daughter, Judith Ellen, of Long Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Williams. In the evening games which followed the dinner first prize was awarded to Miss Archer.

LOCAL COLLEGE AND H. S. GRADS HEAR SERMONS

Albert Eakley, pastor of the United Presbyterian church; hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King"; benediction, the Rev. Harry Evan Owens, pastor of the First Baptist church.

An "overflow" baccalaureate service is planned at the Spurgeon Memorial church at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Cecil M. Aker, pastor of that church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon there.

New Modern Drama Here On June 16

"No More Ladies," starring the romantic and popular team of Robert Montgomery and Joan Crawford, will come to the Broadway theater a week from Sunday.

The picture, which is given smart production and grand playing by every member of the all-star cast, attempts to answer the question of whether or not two ultra sophisticated, highly individual young people who start out by admitting that domestic union may be purgatory as well as paradise, can maintain tolerable marriage by ignoring or forgiving flagrant faults or unfaithfulness.

Included on the list of coming attractions for the Broadway are "Alibi Ike," Joe E. Brown's eagerly awaited new baseball picture, and a double bill, "The Awakening of Jim Burke," with Jack Holt, Jimmy Butler and Florence Rice, and "People Will Talk," starring the laugh team of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland.

YOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelson and young son Ward, of Tampa, Fla., are expected to arrive Monday or Tuesday for an extended visit in the home of Mrs. Nelson's father, C. McNeill, 1103 North Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rime, Miss Ruth Rime and Miss Lila Rime, 921 South Ross street, and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bennett, West Fifth street, were in Los Angeles today for U. S. C. commencement. Jack J. Rime, son of the A. W. Rime, graduated from the school of law. He and his father just returned from a three day fishing trip to Lake George. They encountered a great deal of snow, and found one lake entirely frozen over. Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Rime make their home in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Mozley, 117 West Eighteenth street, are anticipating a trip to St. Louis, Mo., upon which they will leave by train in mid-June.

Miss Carolyn Houghton, 429 South Sycamore street, Zoe Gliden Summer, 1513 North Main street, and Miss Mildred Marchant, Sixth street, Tustin, were among local musicians who planned to go to Los Angeles tonight to attend the closing feature of the Bach Festival under auspices of John Smallman and his famous A Capella Choir of First Congregational church. The program will feature a two piano presentation of "The Art of Fugue" played by Richard Buhlig and Wesley Kuhnle. This is Buhlig's own transcription from the original manuscript.

Cyrus Lloyd of Michigan has arrived to spend the summer with his mother, Mrs. C. S. Lloyd, 827 South Ross street.

Mrs. F. P. Dickey, 519 Bush street, is entertaining a long-anticipated house-guest, her cousin, Mrs. Olive Dooley of Omaha, Neb., who has arrived for an extended summer visit. Many trips to the Southland parks and playgrounds and various parties are being planned to enliven the summer for the guest.

Miss Barbara Burke of Los Angeles, daughter of Attorney W. Maxwell Burke of this city, will arrive tomorrow to spend part of her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Burke in their home, 1461 Orange avenue.

ernment committee, taken from a state water report drawn up about three years ago.

Efforts at getting government recognition of the Elliott plan also are being directed along a second line, through the PWA. Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson and B. A. Etcheverry, consulting engineer, expected to complete a special report to the PWA on the plan today. The plan which was in the project approved by the house flood control committee includes construction of a dam at Jurupa in Riverside county, which is not favored by Orange county.

Word received from Washington by The Register revealed that the Santa Ana river flood control and water conservation project approved by the house committee calls for construction of large reservoirs in or immediately above the lower Santa Ana canyon and in Brea, Fullerton, Carbon and Santiago.

Debris dams would be constructed above the canyon mouths and spreading work on the cones are proposed for San Antonio, Camargo, Deer, Day, Lytle, Devil, Waterman, Twin and Mill creeks, and on the Santa Ana river. The water would be diverted into a lined conduit from which it could be used directly, the report said.

FULLERTON PACKING HOUSE WORKER WINS $100 PRIZE IN VALENCIA FESTIVAL

Ruby Goss of the Fullerton Cooperative Orange association last night won first prize of $100, with a total score of 828 out of a possible score of 1000 points in the orange packing contest that featured the first night's program of the Fullerton Valencia Orange festival.

Although seventh in speed, that counted 500 of the 1000 points, the other points, 100 for appearance, 200 for wrap and 200 for placement of print, brought her record to the total of 828. Her time for packing two boxes was 10 minutes, 15 seconds.

May De Georges of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, won second place with a prize of $50. Her score was 813. She was first in time, packing two boxes in nine minutes and nine seconds.

Other winners

Dorothy Bower of Virginia Groves association of Riverside won third place with a score of 777 points and a prize of $30. She was second in the speed contest with a rate of nine minutes and 21 seconds.

Leo Dix of the Anaheim Citrus association won fourth place and a prize of $20, on his score of 687 points. He was sixth in the speed race, making a time nine minutes and 55.4 seconds.

Fifth prize winner was Agnes Cole of the Fullerton Mutual association, whose score was 643. She was fifth in the speed contest, with a time of 9 minutes and 49.8 seconds. Her prize was $10.

Judges for the contest were Bert Stolle of the California Fruit Growers exchange, Howard Whitney of the American Fruit Growers and Barley Ford of the Mutual Orange Distributors.

They said that the final decision in the judging depended on the minutest details, the scores on various points were so close.

Queen Chosen

Miss Coda Wright, Fullerton entry in the contest for queen of the Valencia Orange festival, was crowned "Queen Valencia" last night preceding the dance that closed the two-day festival sponsored by Fullerton Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Wright was crowned with due ceremony, with Walter Much-Talk, chairman of the queen selection and the coronation ceremony.

Along with six other candidates, Miss Wright appeared before the crowd and judges, Jack Reynolds of the Golden and Tom McLeod of Warner Brothers motion picture studios, both casting directors. Both judges said there were no thirds in the contest, and that all other six candidates were seconds.

Other entries were Rosemary Friedrichs of Buena Park, Dorothy Thurman of Placentia, Artha Ball of Brea, Helen Coffman of Anaheim, Angeline Apalategui of Yorba Linda and June McCanish of La Habra.

The ball that followed the crowning of the queen was attended by more than 200, and the Patrick and Marsh orchestra played for the dancing. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Parent-Teachers

Wilson

Taking over her duties for the new year, Mrs. Fred Thompson, president of Woodrow Wilson P. T. A., presented names of committee members for ratification at a closing meeting held Thursday afternoon in the school.

She suggested Mesdames Carson Smith, program; Thomas Tourant, membership; D. E. Winterbourne, publicity; S. C. Main, magazines; Marcus Lassiter, hospitality; F. C. Hollereth, visiting; F. White, summer round up; Edward Hagthorn, motion pictures; J. Johnson, welfare.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. H. C. Drown, who took charge at the request of the retiring president, Mrs. Russell Adkinson. Jack Thompson, Burrell Lee, Richard Wilson and Bobbie Winterbourne formed a quartet singing "Home on the Range" and "I Have No Use for the Women." Miss Beulah Parker played ukulele accompaniment.

Mrs. Adkinson received a past president's pin from the hands of Mrs. Carl Edgar. Reports of the P. T. A. convention held at San Diego were given by Mrs. Edward Hagthorn and Mrs. H. C. Drown. Mrs. Drown, who has officiated over several meetings of Wilson P. T. A., made a gift to the association presenting Mrs. Thompson with a gavel.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Carson Smith, M. Cumbeorth and M. K. Testorm.

force was approved by the city council last night. The equipment will be purchased at a cost of $155.

Included among measures recommended by the committee of the whole and adopted by the council were the following:

The mayor and city clerk were authorized to renew the water contract of the C. C. C. camp located in the state park at San Clemente, until June 30, 1936.

The city treasurer was authorized to assist the Orange County Coast association in paying expenses incurred in efforts to secure passage of the county coast-line fish preserve bill, which was passed by the assembly this week.

An agreement between the city and Ted R. Hansen, for the use of the city's wells and pipe line in San Juan Capistrano, was approved, and the city clerk authorized to execute the contract on behalf of the city.

The employment of Henry L. Moore and Marion J. Holloway as night patrolmen during the period of the San Diego Exposition was authorized, at a monthly salary of $100. It was also decided to rent the car belonging to police officer Earl Moore for the period of the exposition.

The purchase of a new electric adding machine to be used in the tax collector's office was authorized, and the purchase of squirrel poison by the city was also ordered.

GASOLINE PRICES DROP AGAIN TODAY

Gasoline took another drop in Santa Ana today with the standard first grade fuel and Ethyl dropping a cent a gallon over the price yesterday, which was a decrease over previous prices.

The standard first grade was selling here today for 14 1/2 cents a gallon as compared with 15 1/2 cents yesterday. Third structure fuel stayed at 13 1/2 cents here today, the same price as was quoted yesterday. Ethyl was down to 16 1/2 cents today, as compared with 17 1/2 cents yesterday.

Before the present "war" between major and independent companies started, first structure fuel was selling for 18 cents, third grade fuel was 16 cents and Ethyl was 20 cents.

ATTEMPT FLIGHT TO STRATOSPHERE

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(UP)—The war department was advised today that the stratosphere balloon flight to be attempted by U. S. army balloonists in cooperation with the National Geographic society may start at 6 a. m. EST, tomorrow.

The takeoff will be from Rapid City, S. D. Definite information is expected by 4 p. m. today at the offices of the National Geographic society, the department said.

Messages relative to the flight will be received by the war department and transmitted by teletype to the National Geographic society where they will be made public.

Court Notes

John Osterman, of El Toro, named executor in the will of the late B. P. Clineard, of Irvine, who left a $200,000 estate, was named special administrator of the estate in superior court late yesterday, pending hearing of a contest of the will, which has been filed by Clineard's brother, W. Sanford Clineard, of Santa Ana.

Conduct Funeral Of R. S. Ingersoll

LA HABRA, June 8.—Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in Los Angeles for Richard (Dick) S. Ingersoll, who with his wife and two small children lived in La Habra Heights for nine years. Mr. Ingersoll passed away last Monday night in a Los Angeles hospital, following a brief illness, attributed to ptomaine poisoning. An emergency operation was performed in an effort to save his life.

The family moved from the Heights area to Los Angeles last winter when Mr. Ingersoll accepted a position there. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marion Ingersoll, and two children, Ward and Janet; his mother, Mrs. Alice K. Ingersoll, and one brother, Donald, of Los Angeles.

BANDIT SUSPECT LODGED IN JAIL

A small nickel-plated revolver, and a hunch by Officer G. W. Coltrane of the Orange police department, have solved a bold robbery in Orange May 17 last, it was believed today as Richard Mustard, 23, of 1420 West Nineteenth street, was in the Orange county jail awaiting prosecution on a robbery charge.

When a hold bandit followed Mr. and Mrs. William G. L. Page and the former's brother and wife from Long Beach on March 17 and held them up at the point of a gun at the Page home in Orange, he used a small nickel plated revolver with a short barrel, and secured about $300.

Recently the Los Angeles police arrested an alleged robber and his picture was printed in a Los Angeles newspaper, together with the notation that he had used a small nickel plated revolver.

Noticing the item, Officer Coltrane had a hunch, and checked the description of the two weapons finding them identical. Then he took Mr. and Mrs. Page to the Los Angeles jail, where they are reported to have positively identified Mustard as the bandit who held them up on March 17.

Mustard was brought to the Orange county jail yesterday by Coltrane and Constable George Bartley of Orange and booked on a charge of robbery, to appear in the Orange justice court.

An interesting feature of the case, according to reports, is that Mustard's brother was arrested May 27, in Los Angeles on a similar charge.

MINIATURE TRAIN TO BE IN NEWS REEL

Through the efforts of the publicity and promotion committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, Orange county will break into the Universal Newsreel in the near future.

Arrangements were completed today to take moving pictures of the Weber City train in Irvine park, with 13 Santa Ana children acting the roles of train operators and passengers.

The miniature train has created wide interest, which resulted in the arrangements made with Universal to make news pictures of the tiny train, which travels on real tracks, carrying young passengers. The film will be made on Wednesday, June 12, at 1 p. m. in Irvine park. The children will meet at the Chamber of Commerce offices here, and will travel to Irvine park in a group.

The local children will be conductors, engineers, train operators, signalmen and passengers. Children who will be in the news reel include Patricia Swanney, Jimmy Harrison, Don Leigh Merker, Richard Dean Merker, Tommy Hall, George Barr, Joan Forgy, Fred Forgy Jr., Ann Harvey, Melbourne Harvey Jr., Rolla Hays III, Ann Conner and Patricia Hayden.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

Do not violate your deepest instincts in an attempt to become stoical and submissive in the face of what might be misunderstood to be like the capricious act of a mysterious, intangible divine power.
In this life we cannot hope to completely understand some of the things which God permits; but do not blur the consciousness that your Father's heart aches with yours. He would spare you even the mite of suffering if it could be best and for your highest good.

SIX DIVORCES GRANTED BY COUNTY COURTS

After being under advisement with the court for several weeks, during which time an amended complaint was filed, changing the grounds from desertion to cruelty, the divorce petition of Rolie A. Parker of Anaheim against Mrs. L. Parker, now of Las Vegas, Nev., was granted last yesterday by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

At the trial of the case, Parker charged his wife with infidelity, naming Oris Haig as the other man. She lived with Haig in Las Vegas, he asserted. Their son, Rolie Jr., corroborated this charge.

The divorce decree gives custody of the son to the father, and custody of a daughter to the mother, with Parker required to pay $40 per month toward her support. Five other divorces were granted by Judge Allen yesterday, including one sought by Lora E. Anderson, whose suit against John K. Anderson was originally filed February 11, 1931. The couple effected a reconciliation after that, but again separated last September 31, and Mrs. Anderson filed a supplemental divorce complaint June 4, charging cruelty. They were married at Lamar, Missouri, January 24, 1911.

Other decrees were granted as follows:

Vera Huston against Merwin A. Huston, on grounds of desertion; Louise Maloney Norton against John Kenneth Norton, on grounds of non-support; Helen L. Gemberling against Thomas E. Gemberling, on grounds of desertion; Pauline Reyes against Frank R. Reyes, on grounds of cruelty.

In Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court, the case of Margaret M. Holt against Edmund R. Holt, who is charged with non-support and cruelty, was continued to June 14, after part of the hearing was conducted.

STRANGE SUITCASE MYSTERY CLEARING

The mystery is solved, at least part of it.

Deputies in the sheriff's office were puzzled yesterday in investigating a suitcase, with man's clothing and personal articles in it, deposited under an orange tree near Northam by a mysterious motorist who then proceeded on his way.

A suit inside the suitcase contained the name of "James E. Gallagher" and the initials "J. E. G." were stamped on the end.

A portion of the puzzle was solved when a teletype report from Los Angeles last night informed Sheriff Logan Jackson that Gallagher is a resident of Apartment 7, Julian Hotel, Los Angeles, and that the suitcase was stolen from his car in Santa Barbara Thursday.

Gallagher was scheduled to come to Santa Ana today to identify the stolen suitcase.

Officers were still wondering today how it happened that a suitcase, stolen in Santa Barbara Thursday, was left near Northam at 5:10 Thursday afternoon by a motorist driving toward Los Angeles from the south.

Hold Playground Benefit Program Tuesday Night

GARDEN GROVE, June 8.—An entertainment will be given in the auditorium of the Washington school Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of raising funds for playground equipment for the summer recreational project. Through the help of the S.E.R.A., Garden Grove school children will have supervised playground work during the summer months.

Victor Laird is supervisor at the Washington school and E. L. Marr at the Hoover Mexican school. The work started this week with a good attendance at both schools.

The program will include a play, "Weiners on Wednesday," to be presented by members of D. S. Jordan's night dramatic class with the following taking part: Beatrice and Mary Dolf, Juanita Dungan, Mrs. D. S. Jordan, Howard Moore and Donald Jordan; numbers by the Young People's orchestra under the direction of A. D. Brownell; dance numbers by pupils of the Miss Vera Getty studio in Santa Ana; piano solos by Miss Alice Imamoto; instrumental trio composed of Alice, Grace and Lily Imamoto; ventriloquist numbers by Alva Brower, of La Verne.

HEAVY SWELLS VISIT COAST; BATHERS SAVED

Violent ground swells which battered at the southern California coast line from San Diego to Los Angeles for eight hours yesterday threatened damage at many Orange county points, and nearly took the life of Tom Cliff, 19, at Three Arches, near Laguna Beach.

Cliff was saved from drowning after he had been swept to sea in the sea of a huge comber while bathing in the surf. He was rescued after more than an hour's battle with the raging waters by Captain Ed Hobart and Orville Skidmore, Laguna Beach lifeguards, aided by Rupert Turnbull, Pomona college students, and Valmar "Seed" Skidmore, former Emerald Bay lifeguard.

Cries for help coming from Cliff, struggling to get back to shore, were heard by a girl companion, who called neighbors, who in turn notified the Laguna Beach lifeguard station. Reaching the scene, Hobart, Skidmore and Turnbull plunged into the seething surf and struck out for the drowning man. Hundreds of spectators, unable to give the rescuing party any aid for lack of lifesaving equipment, lined the edge of the bluff.

A small flat bottomed boat which otherwise might have been used in aiding the life guards had no oars and was therefore useless. After a desperate battle against strong and treacherous currents which swept about the rocks and churned the water, the rescuers reached the drowning man and started back for the shore. Buffeted about in the raging sea, the men were putting up a desperate battle to make a headway against the tide and currents which time after time caused them to lose distance.

Realizing the serious plight of the rescue party, people on the beach began to search for anything that could be used in aiding them. It was then that Cochran, son of Mrs. Sadie Cochran, of Laguna Beach, swam out with a life line and with its aid brought back the rescue party. Accompanying the lifeguards was the first aid patrol of the Laguna Beach fire department.

The heavy swells had evidently subsided this morning, observers said, and no recurrence of the trouble is expected today.

When Greek meets Greek, so 'tis said, something is bound to happen.

But John Galanis of the Charcoal Broiler cafe didn't like what happened.

So he swore to a complaint yesterday, charging Milton Papayanis with issuing fictitious checks with intent to defraud.

It seems Galanis had known Papayanis for four years, and cashed $10 check for him on December 23 last, when Papayanis made a plea for this accommodation to help get a truck from the garage.

The check was never made good, so it is claimed, and officers are on the lookout for Papayanis who is reported to be in Los Angeles.

MAKE ARREST IN BOX CAR ROBBERY

Solution of the recent box-car robbery in Santa Ana was believed near today, with the arrest of Jack Birchfield, 21, of Los Angeles, who was booked at the county jail last night at 9 o'clock on a burglary charge.

Birchfield was arrested by Detective Lieutenant Chas. W. Wolford and G. W. Slater, special agent of the Pacific Electric Railway, who were still working on the case today, with the possibility that additional arrests will be made.

Birchfield, it is understood, will be charged with complicity in the theft of nearly $2,000 worth of cigarettes and tobacco, taken from a boxcar at the local P. E. depot several days ago.

Hold Sewing Meeting

ORANGE, June 8.—Sewing on articles to be sold at the annual church school picnic which will be held Thursday at Levitt park occupied members of the Martha society of St. John's Lutheran church when they met Friday in the church social hall for a covered dish luncheon and business session. Mrs. Norma Dierker, president, presided, while Mrs. Rex Shannon was in charge of arrangements for the luncheon. It was announced that there will be no further meetings of the organization until September.

Champ 'Chute Jumper To Perform

Troy Colbeck, the world's champion parachute jumper, will be featured in a special aviation program to be staged at the Martin airport just south of Santa Ana tomorrow; it was announced today by Floyd Martin.

Colbeck will make his featured jump about 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the airport official announced. Jimmie Washburn of Santa Ana will take his first leap into the air with a parachute tomorrow afternoon, under the watchful eye of Colbeck.

Washburn and Colbeck will go up in Floyd Wright's cabin ship. The novice will bail out at about 3000 feet after which Colbeck will make a sensational relayed jump, falling past Washburn and beating him to the ground.

Another big feature of the program tomorrow afternoon will be some thrilling acrobatic flying by Jim Cheney in his new Stearman ship.

384 PROSPECTS FOR HOUSING ACT JOBS

With 1368 calls completed to date, the FHA survey in Santa Ana, has resulted in securing 375 prospects under Title I of the National Housing Act and 109 prospects under Title II of the housing act, it was learned today in a report made by Mrs. Zilda Oxarart, FHA project supervisor.

There were 287 calls made during the past week, and 51 prospects under Title I were secured, and 18 under Title II, in spite of the fact that considerable amount of the time of the survey workers was taken up with examinations and schooling.

Title I prospects are those who want to do repairing, remodeling or make purchases for their homes under the terms of the housing act, while Title II prospects either want to build new homes or refinance obligations on existing property.

Hilgenfeld and Daughter Appear On Memory Hour

The program arranged at 3 p. m. tomorrow for the regular Musical Memory Hour program at Melrose Abbey, on Highway 101, north of the Orange County hospital, will feature Samuel F. Hilgenfeld and his daughter, Miss Leone Hilgenfeld, of Anaheim, John Hart Stout, of Orange, and Mrs. Merrill Bauer, of Santa Ana.

Hilgenfeld, who has served in the ministry for several years at both Buena Park and Anaheim, will give a number of children's verses as the scripture reading.

Hilgenfeld and his daughter have chosen three duet numbers: "The Lord is My Shepherd" (Smart); "Whispering Hope" (Hawthorne); and "Some Time We'll Understand" (Leech).

John Hart Stout, 13 year old violinist has won first place in the music contest of the Elstedford at Los Angeles for the last three consecutive years and in this program will play "Land of the Sky Blue Water" (Cadmus), "Serenade" (Chaminade) and "Cardas" (Jakma). The violin used by young Mr. Stout was made by his father.

Mrs. Merrill Bauer in addition to playing the organ prelude and postlude will act as accompanist on the Cathedral organ.

Musical Memory Hour programs are held in the chapel of Melrose Abbey at 3 o'clock every Sunday afternoon. The public is invited.

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—When you see "The Broadway Melody," you'll see Jack Benny engaged in a terrific fight in a theatrical office. But don't get alarmed over the vociferousness of the punches. The sound track for them was made in advance by a technician clapping his hands at regular intervals while standing very close to a "mike."

DEMOCRATS OF ORANGE COUNTY PLAN 1936 VICTORY

Determined that President Franklin D. Roosevelt shall be re-elected in 1936, and that a winning Democratic organization shall be built in California for the 1938 gubernatorial election, 135 men and women gathered at the American Legion hall in Orange last night for a booster organization meeting of the Young Democrats of Orange County.

The group is not affiliated with any faction or individual, it was announced by several speakers, but will carry out a united campaign for the Democratic ticket without getting sidetracked on primary controversies.

The immediate objective, it was declared, is to build a real Democratic club throughout Orange county, with a working precinct organization, in preparation for future state and national elections when the Democrats can win if they put up a united front.

R. F. Palmgren of Santa Ana, chairman of the Young Democrats of Orange County, presided at the gathering and invited all Democrats to become affiliated in the organization. Eugene Walker is secretary of the group, Dr. Perry Davis is vice-chairman, and S. H. Long of Tustin is treasurer.

Several visiting speakers were present, including officials of the state Young Democratic club, who urged unity aggressiveness in building the Democratic party in California.

Alvin P. Meyers, editor of the California Young Democrats, announced that the publication, which was discontinued after the last election, will be published again after July 1.

It is a civic duty and a duty to the government, to take part in politics, it was declared by Dr. E. C. Brinkmeyer of Los Angeles.

Other speakers included Don Gill, chairman of the rules and resolutions committee of the state organization, Miss Evelyn Adams, chairman of the education committee, Miss Eunice Schmidt, vice-chairman of the women's division, Mrs. Patty Smith, state secretary, Robert Riddle, vice president, Jack Miller, treasurer of the Los Angeles county group.

Judge Homer G. Ames introduced Dr. Brinkmeyer, and Elmer Guy urged real constructive steps be taken to unite all factions of the Democratic party upon a winning program.

George Stinson, the "Singing Cop," entertained the group with several solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Stinson.

ROBERTSON RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

Orlyn Robertson returned yesterday from White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, where he attended the convention of the $250,000 field club of the Mutual Life insurance company of New York. There were 300 in attendance and Robertson was one of four members of the club who spoke on the convention program. His subject was "Prospecting and the Life Insurance Business."

While in the East Robertson attended the Memorial Day races at Indianapolis and visited relatives in Missouri.

Police News

Gene E. Higgins, 47, of San Clemente, was booked at the county jail yesterday on a statutory charge following his arrest by Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey. Bail of $5000 was set by Justice John Landell, and Higgins' preliminary examination was set for June 10 at 2 p. m.

Former Anaheim Girl Represents Riverside County

ANAHEIM, June 8.—A former Anaheim girl may be crowned California's most representative high school girl. At least, Wilma Heying, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Heying, of Corona, formerly of Anaheim, has won the title for Riverside county and will enter into the state finals in Salinas, July 17 and 18. The winner gets a trip to Honolulu for herself and her mother.

Wilma is 18 and finally won out over her nearest competitor by her excellent horsemanship. Scholastic standing in the contest is given a rating 60 per cent horsemanship, 30 per cent; and a healthy outdoor appearance, 20 per cent.

Brotherhood To Hear Scientist

FULLERTON, June 8.—Roy Leishman, scientist, will tell of some of the secrets of television and will illustrate his lecture when he is principal speaker June 11 at the Baptist church Men's brotherhood meeting.

The lecture will be at 7:45 p. m. open to the public and will follow a dinner for the members of the brotherhood to start at 6:30 p. m. in the church dining room. Thomas Flynn is chairman of the program for the evening.

WASHINGTON

COMEDY
WASHINGTON, June 7.—The trouble with diplomacy is that it is utterly humorless. Not enough comedians were nearly rectified recently when the justly famous and well liked Jester, Eddie Cantor, called on Mussolini, and, by a chance remark, upset the stiff relations of two nations, cost one commercial attaché his job and almost got an ambassador in bad with the state department. It is a story which new dealers are telling only in strictest confidence.

It seems that Cantor was at a loss for something to talk about when he had a special audience with the Italian dictator. He pressed all fifty buttons on his desk. In came the cabinet, assistant secretaries, running. Mr. Mussolini put them to work at once on the new idea.

TRAGEDY

The version which the most eminent new dealers here have is that Mr. Cantor, by this time, realized he had a bear by the tail. He handed the tall over to a commercial attaché in Rome, who became greatly interested in the proposition and apparently made some broad promises to Mr. Mussolini's men. The American ambassador in Rome became interested, took the matter up with the state department here.

Up to this time, apparently no one had thought of asking Hollywood what it thought about the idea. The state department looked into that angle, found the movie industry not only cold to the proposition but frozen stiff against it. The movie moguls did not want any of Mr. Mussolini's actors and said so.

But the movement had been taken so far in Rome by this time that no one dared to tell Mr. Mussolini outright about the situation. The promises of the commercial attaché could not possibly be fulfilled, so authorities here decided the shortest way out of the situation would be to recall him. This was done, and he was given permanent leave of absence without pay. But still it was necessary to do something about Mr. Mussolini's actors. A substitute plan was worked out so that a few of them may come over here on a tour and be given keys to the cities, but no jobs.

HOOVER

What Mr. Hoover has been whispering into the ears of those Republican leaders on his latest transcontinental journey is substantially this:

The next Republican presidential candidate should come from the Middle West. There is where the hopes of Republican success must center. The candidate must be a sound money man.

This cancels whatever previous notion Mr. Hoover may have entertained that an easterner of the type of Ogden Mills should be the choice. Indeed, there is good reason to believe that those who got the idea that Mr. Hoover intended to back Mills misinterpreted Mr. Hoover's position. He has told friends lately that he never had any idea that Mills could or should be nominated.

NAMES

The most influential Republican authorities agree with Mr. Hoover this time. The names they are talking over are well known: Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Governor Landon of Kansas, and Senator Dickinson of Iowa. No others.

Yet Mr. Hoover is heard more about Dickinson's chances. The leaders have apparently decided to talk him up to see what the popular reaction will be among party men.

He has a good record of opposition to the New Deal, being one of the few Republicans who originally voted against NRA. In fact, he has opposed just about everything the New Deal stood for. The party moguls apparently believe the political situation now is getting around to the point where a relatively antagonist should be given the nomination in preference to anyone who has approved some New Deal steps.

CRACK-DOWN

General Johnson dashed into an elevator in the National Press building the other day and barked: "Take me up to the thirtieth floor right away without any stops. I've got a radio speech which goes on the air in two minutes."

The elevator girl looked at him, failed to recognize him, shook her head and said she was sorry but that was against the rules. The general would have to take a slow ride up like all the private. You can imagine how this affected the general. His voice rang through the building, shaking the beams. He demanded that the starter do something. The girl called the starter, but he took one look at the irate general, recognized him, and immediately found that his presence was required in another section of the building.

The girl stood her ground, let the elevator load up, stopped at several floors and then sweetly smiled at the fuming ex-dictator of NRA.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

HAND
NEW YORK, June 8.—News dispatches announce that an American firm - the J. G. White Engineering Corp. - will construct a dam at Lake Tana for the Emperor of Abyssinia. Informed New Yorkers comment is "oh yeah."

The White concern is legally American all right - but it's a long time since it has done any important engineering work in this country. It has an intimate affiliate in London known as J. G. White & Co., Ltd. It might not be accurate to say that it is British-owned - but well-posted sources remark that it has certainly been useful to the British more than once, perhaps the more so because it is officially American. Certainly this was true in the handling of English concessions in the Philippines after we took the islands over from Spain.

The background of the Tana project is Britain's nervousness about Japanese colonialists in control of the headwaters of the Blue Nile. That's why she originally encouraged Mussolini's Abyssinian ambitions. But the Italians felt their oats too well when they began talking about an equal interest with England in the Red Sea. Britain had to find some other answer in a hurry - and this is she will now have the safety she craved for the Nile; the Abyssinian Emperor has a wad of cash. It would have looked just a trifle crude if an English firm had been given the dam job - and John Bull is seldom crude. That's where the J. G. White Corp. gives the British Empire a great big hand.

DETOUR

Financial insiders expect rapid development of the principle of regulation by taxation. This system is indicated as the one sure method of forwarding New Deal ideas without getting involved in constitutional arguments.

Justice Brandeis hinted as much when in his opinion on the Frazier-Lemke bill. He said that if the government wanted to relieve mortgagors it should do so by exercising its right of eminent domain, thus assuring that the burden of relief offered in the public interest shall be borne by the public through taxation (instead of being saddled onto the mortgagors).

Moreover law sharps say that the processing taxes are the one feature of AAA not subject to attack on constitutional grounds. The taxation detour would be a rough and roundabout way to reach the administration's goal but experts believe it would have a good chance of getting there if the steering is carefully done.

REOPENED

One hopeful sign of recovery which hasn't yet attracted much attention is the continuing revival of banking interest in mortgages. $57,000,000 of mortgages have been offered to the Federal Housing Administration for insurance by mortgages and applications are understood to be coming in at close to a million dollars a day. A third of the mortgages are on new construction and two-thirds for refinancing. Direct requests from mortgagors for insurance amount to a sizable - though much smaller - total.

Three factors are responsible for the altered attitude of bankers - who would have touched real estate with a hundred-foot pole a few months ago. One is the gradual realization that insured mortgages are a perfectly sound investment. Second is the terrific pressure of idle funds and the need to put them to profitable use - coupled with the apprehension that interest rates will go lower if mortgage investments aren't made now. Third - the idea that the government would go much more heavily into the mortgage business if the banks continued their indifferent attitude has at last registered.

There are two major markets for capital - securities and real estate. The former has begun to blossom prettily under the deft guidance of the Securities. The latter is now being reopened in a big way - though less conspicuously. Exchange Commission. The Frazier-Lemke decision has been a decided moral boost. Re-employment of capital through these two channels should make a clean-cut contribution to recovery.

SHOOTIN'

Keen New York sources predict that the Wagner labor bill will pass soon despite qualms of doubt about its constitutionality. Cancellation of NRA's protection to labor will be a potent argument in putting it through Congress.

White House backing will also be a factor. But the hope is that FDR will want a few changes which will make the bill a little more palatable to business. In particular an amendment is scheduled - based on a feature of the British Trade Disputes Act - which would require labor unions to accept new legal responsibilities as well as new benefits. That's what all the shootin's been about.

UNKNOWN

The bankers are battling Title II of the Eccles bill right down to the last trench. Every week several New York leaders trek to Washington for chats with Congressional contacts in an effort to strengthen resistance. The point they are trying especially to register is the unwisdom of allowing the banker's position to be dictated by their biggest creditor.

Word is that Title II's fate in the full Senate Committee headed

COFFEY MADE DIRECTOR OF WELFARE BODY

ORANGE, June 8.—Announcement of the appointment of C. W. Coffey as a director of the Orange Welfare board was made during a meeting of the group held Friday in American Legion hall. It was voted to discontinue the regular meetings during the months of July and August.

In a report of the welfare department given by Mrs. Clara Haines, it was revealed that the Orange transient list is showing a marked decrease each month. Thirteen families, representing 55 individuals, have been helped by the department during the past month. Milk orders have been given to two families, 17 grocery orders filled, 94 garments distributed and 10 household articles given out. The total disbursements for the month were $84.56.

Mrs. Haines announced that there is still a need for children's garments, men's and children's shoes and baby clothes.

PRESIDENT

Miss Melba Talmage, High school Girl Reserve head, who will be installed Monday evening.

CHILDREN TO TAKE PART IN SERVICES

ORANGE, June 8.—"Making Black White" will be the topic of a children's sermon to be given by Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, at a special children's day program to be presented Sunday morning during the regular church services.

Augmenting the church services will be a program put on by children from various Sunday school departments, including the presentation of a pageant, "The Children's Hour. Parts will be taken by Mrs. Vernon Valentine, Ralph Woods, Betty Lou Smith, Stanley Oeckles, Charles Grew, Barbara Ann Smith, Grace Jean Barr, Sally Ann Joost, Betty McBride, Arthur Wood, Margaret Carpenter, Ruth Mansur, Doris Franzen and Carl Milbrat.

Chorus numbers, "Hear the Joyous Song of Praise," will be sung by the primary and junior departments. "Bluebird Song," primary department; "I Think When I Hear That Sweet Story of Old," the church choir; "We Have a Message," primary department; "Sunbeam," nursery department; "All Things Bright and Beautiful," second grade girls; "Butterflies," beginners department; "Prayer Song," junior department, and "We'll Come to the Temple Gladly," the choir.

LUTHERAN CHURCH CLUB HOLDS PARTY

ORANGE, June 8.—Bridge, "500" and buncie provided entertainment for members of the Help Meet club of the Immanuel Lutheran church when they gathered Thursday afternoon in the church social hall for their regular monthly social.

Following card play, refreshments of strawberry sundaes, coffee and cookies were served at four o'clock centered with pink carnations. Mrs. Albert Struck and Mrs. Gus Struck were hostesses.

Mrs. Karl Glassbrenner, president of the group, presided over a short business session when Mrs. Marie Mueller, Mrs. Theresa Isaacs and Mrs. Arthur Heim were elected to serve on the executive board. It was voted to discontinue business sessions during the months of July and August. Plans were discussed for a picnic to be held June 27 and a benefit bridge party to take place during July.

PLAY PLANNED FOR CHURCH ON SUNDAY

ORANGE, June 8.—In order to raise funds to increase the church national student loan fund, a children's day program will be presented Sunday morning at the regular service of the local First Methodist church.

A play, "St. Christopher's Children," will be a feature of the program and will be given under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Allen, with parts being taken by Vernon Shippee as St. Christopher; Kenneth Claypool, Mr. Ed Stinson; Cecil Miller, Harold Dotson, Marian Disbennet, Lorene Ivens, Lura Dotson, Arthur Hobson Jr., Fern Barnes, Billie Shippee, Kenneth Claypool Jr., Kerney Adams, Milton Meehan, Myrtle Stinson, Roberta Parks, Mary Ann Rowlands, Mary Lou Liming, Maxine Collins, Blanche Vooman, Betty Lee Berry and Irene Ladd.

A musical program will be given by the various children's departments of the church.

AID SOCIETY MEETS

ORANGE, June 8.—Early summer flowers brightened the dining room of First Presbyterian church Thursday night when members of the Ladies Aid society met for their regular monthly luncheon. Miss Lois Gaylord was in charge of the affair.

Mrs. C. O. Powell, president, presided over the business, when it was voted to send donations to the scholarship funds at Occidental college and San Anselmo seminary at San Francisco. All women of the group and those interested in quilting were asked to meet at the church Thursday at 9:30 to quilt. Those attending are asked to bring their own bob lunch.

by Fletcher depends chiefly on Bulkley of Ohio and Couzens of Michigan. Bulkley is counted as reasonably safe for the conservatives but Couzens is rated an unknown quantity. The questions he has asked at sub-committee hearings don't shed much light on his probable attitude.

CANDIDATE

While Father Coughlin has never openly put the blast on Senator Couzens, insiders learn that the Senator is pretty hostile to the Radio Priest in fact as well as in theory. Reports are current that Louis Ward has political aspirations and that Coughlin is trying with the idea of pushing him as a candidate against Couzens. You can imagine Couzens' pleasure.

SIDELIGHTS

If you think 435 Congressmen is too many, consider the plight of the French. They have 820 Deputies - many of whom could give Huey Long pointers in the gentle art of raising the devil. A book by Lewis Douglas will be published shortly. It all helps the old build-up. General Motors' second quarter statement may show double the earnings of the first three months.

MUSICAL ARTS CLUB OFFICERS OF HOLLAND TO ARRIVE SUNDAY

Nominating committee members of Musical Arts club were unanimous in their choice of this year's president, Mrs. W. B. Snow, to direct club activities next year, according to reports offered yesterday at the semi-monthly meeting of the club, held in Garden Inn.

Mary Batten Steffenson submitted the report which included Clarence Gustin, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh and Celia Fross Whitte, as vice-presidents; Mrs. Jay C. Hamill, treasurer; Miss Carolyn Haughton, recording secretary; Miss Mildred Marchant, corresponding secretary; Miss Leonora Tompkins, parliamentarian; Julian Mathews, sergeant-at-arms; Zoe Glidden Sumner, historian; and Mrs. George Harper, song leader.

Clarence Gustin declined the post of first vice president which carries with it the responsibility of arranging programs, a duty which he has accomplished so successfully this year. In explaining the reasons that dictated his refusal to serve, he proposed Mrs. Steffenson for the office, and her name will be added to the ticket to be ratified at the club meeting on June 21.

This meeting will be a covered dish luncheon in Mrs. Harper's studio, 225 River avenue, Orange, Mrs. Snow will arrange transportation and those with room in their cars or desiring to accompany someone, are to be at her home, 308 East Sixth street, at 11:45 that morning.

The program was presented by the success of her piano pupil, Olive Schweitzer, in the Los Angeles Festival of Arts; to Mrs. Harper whose sister, Mrs. Gustin, took first place in vocal events, and to Clarence Gustin whose former piano pupil, Virginia Mustel with her sisters, placed in the string trio event.

For the program following luncheon and business session, Mr. Gustin presented Eleanor Young Elliott in a review of the intercollegiate anthology of verse, "First the Blade," latest issue of the Santa Ana Junior College Fine Arts Press. After discussing the volume and the work as representative of the trend which modern youth is taking in its thought processes, she read various poems, including the prize winners and some by Santa Ana Junior college contributors, especially Celestia Straub's "The Old Actress."

20 TONS OF HAY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Twenty tons of hay, located near West Second and Townsend streets, were destroyed in a spectacular blaze this morning at 3 o'clock.

The fire was discovered by the night police patrol squad, which sent in the alarm from the box at Fourth and Artesia streets.

The hay was the property of L. L. Merchant, 2705 West First street.

Court Notes

Mrs. Minnie M. Harmon yesterday filed suit in superior court for a divorce from Laurence W. Harmon, whom she charged with cruelty. They married in Santa Ana June 1, 1931, and separated March 11, this year.

Sam Block and Max Rouse, owners of furnishings of the Balboa Inn property at Balboa, including hotel, restaurant and drug store, today filed suit in superior court against county and Newport Beach city officials, to recover $164.75 from the county and $146.54 from the city, representing taxes paid under protest. They claim they acquired ownership March 5, after the date of assessment, which is March 1.

The late Alex Pirie, of Santa Ana, formerly of Orange, who died in Santa Ana June 3, left a $10,000 estate, to be shared equally by the two daughters, Mrs. Warren, of the county, and Mrs. Benjamin, of Los Angeles. The will was filed in superior court by Martin Warren and Willis A. Benjamin, sons-in-law of the deceased. The will left a fourth of the estate to a grand-daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Dunbar, 122 West Nineteenth street, Santa Ana; $50 to the United Presbyterian church; with the residue to be shared equally by the two daughters, Mrs. Warren, of the county, and Mrs. Benjamin, of Los Angeles.

The will of the late Louise M. Backs, of Anaheim, who died May 22, was on file for probate today in superior court, with Frances J. Backs, her daughter, as petitioner. After leaving a house and lot at Seal Beach to the daughter, Frances, $100 in cash and $75 in certificates to the Ebell club, of Anaheim; $100 to the Daughters of the American Revolution, for the upkeep of "Pioneer House" in Anaheim; the will divided the residue equally between five sons and daughters, Ferdinand A. Backs, Jr., Herman L. Backs, Emilie E. Walbridge, Emma C. Jackson and Frances Backs.

BODY BLOW BREAKS BONE: ASKS $5761

When Fay Simons, of Anaheim, came up behind Rhea M. Trissell, who operates a beauty parlor there, and allegedly delivered a blow with her knee to the person of Mrs. Trissell, entirely breaking off the lower four vertebrae of her spine, she started a $5761 law suit. Mrs. Trissell sued the owner of the knee for that amount in superior court today, as an outgrowth of the incident which occurred June 30, 1934, while Mrs. Trissell was leaning over a cigar counter talking to a friend.

Fay Simon, she alleged, approached from behind and "carelessly, negligently, recklessly and unlawfully" delivered the blow.

Mrs. Trissell asks $5000 for her injury, $125 for past medical expense, $300 for future anticipated medical expense, and $336 for loss of earnings from her beauty parlor for 21 weeks.

CCC Camp News

SAN CLEMENTE, June 8.—An advance group will leave camp on Monday to reestablish a camp at Green Valley Falls at Descanso.

E. F. Carlander has been transferred to Griffith park camp in Los Angeles.

Tonight officers of No. 1945 will honor junior officers of March Field district at a dinner dance to be held in the new dining room of the Travel Inn cafe. Arrangements are in charge of Lieutenant J. W. Kennedy and Lieutenant Jack Blevans. One hundred officers and ladies are expected to attend, according to reservations that have been made.

The existing measles quarantine is expected to be lifted on Tuesday. All cases have returned to camp from the Naval hospital in San Diego and no new cases have been reported.

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

"Proving" irrigation one of the paramount problems in profitable crop production, the Tulare county farm housing committee probed further, under the supervision of Allen Thomson, secretary of the Tulare County Farm Bureau federation.

"In a modernization survey covering 495 farms in the Visalia, Tulare, Lindsay and Dinuba districts it was found that 13 farms wanted irrigation pumping equipment; 21 wanted additional concrete irrigation pipes; 23 signed up for new pumpmotes; eight wanted new and four required repairs to irrigation wells, and one was in need of a complete reservoir.

"Any power company or pump manufacturing concern, will test pumping equipment for efficiency at no cost to the owner. A pumping plant operating at a low rate of efficiency often represents a considerable loss to the operator in excess power costs and labor. Federal Housing loans are available to farmers for the purpose of installing, repairing or replacing pumping equipment, drilling of wells, installation of pipe lines, etc."

NEGOTIATING FOR CHARGE REDUCTION IN CHAIN LETTERS

Filing of a plea by five defendants facing charges of criminal conspiracy and "receiving and recording bets and wagers" in connection with a chain letter store recently raided by city and county authorities in Santa Ana, was postponed for a week when the defendants appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen late yesterday.

It was understood that negotiations were being attempted for procuring dismissal of the felony charges, with the defendants to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge of operating a pool. Nat James, C. B. Brockert, Marion Smith, Louise Burghart and Helen F. Buchanan are the defendants.

Three defendants charged with drunk-driving were arraigned before Judge Allen late yesterday and pleaded guilty. Walter Pietzke was sentenced to six months in the county jail. R. H. Shields, charged on two counts, asked probation and will receive a hearing June 14. Ed Fowell also asked probation, and will receive a hearing June 14.

John Guzman, charged with non-support of an unborn babe at Stanton, was placed on probation for three years, on condition that he pay $2 per week until further notice, toward the babe's support.

BETTER PUMP EQUIPMENT S ECONOMY AND

Farm modernization pays dividends, according to a statement made today by Oscar W. Shattuck, farm representative in charge of California, Arizona and Nevada for the federal housing administration who was here placing a special farm exhibit in the great Better Housing Exhibit which closes tonight in the American Legion hall.

"Preachments aplenty have been penned on this pertinent subject, but few, in the opinion of the farm section of the federal housing administration in California, are more interesting than a recent demonstration in Tulare county," the FHA official said.

"This improvement project, which qualifies for low cost, long-term loans under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration, was made at the Abercrombie ranch, owned by a member of the firm of Fulton and Abercrombie, Tulare merchants.

"The problem was irrigation. Costs were carefully combed and pumping expense was found too high, with efficiency correspondingly low. Two pumps were in use and statistics compiled for 1933 operation revealed:

"No. 1 pump, propelled by a 25-horsepower motor, was operated 425.6 hours in 1933, consuming 94,750 k.w.h., at a cost of $836.60. It produced 511 gallons of water a minute, an efficiency rating of 43.6.

"No. 2 pump, propelled by a 15-horsepower motor, was operated 327.0 hours in 1933, consuming 47,230 k.w.h., at a cost of $742.03. It produced 240 gallons of water a minute, an efficiency rating of 40.8.

"Faced with a record of low efficiency, Mr. Abercrombie's first move to clip costs was aimed at more modern equipment.

"The two pumps were replaced by a single unit, a 50-horsepower outfit. Comparisons of operating costs are interesting. In a year's service, 1934 the new pump was operated 2926 hours and consumed 97,830 k.w.h., which cost $1160.16.

"Not only was there a direct saving of $199.47 in operating costs, but also a very considerable saving in labor, since sufficient water for proper irrigation could be pumped during daylight hours, as against practically a 24-hour schedule necessary with the old equipment.

"Because of the larger quantities of water immediately available when and where needed, a better crop production resulted, and the entire improvement proved so satisfactory that Mr. Abercrombie set forth the figures in an interesting report to O. W. Shattuck, farm representative of the federal housing administration, on the dollars and cents results of farm modernization.

ANNUAL MEET OF J. C. ALUMNI SET JUNE 13

Annual meeting of the Santa Ana Junior college alumni association will be held in the east lobby of the Y.M.C.A. building at Church and Sycamore streets, Thursday, June 13, it was announced by Fred Humiston, alumni president.

Members of the 1935 class as well as all graduates of Santa Ana Junior college are invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 8 p. m. The meeting is held following commencement exercises each year. A program has been arranged and officers will be elected for the following year.

Other officers of the association are Marion Parks, vice president; Katherine Spicer, secretary; and Miner Whitford, treasurer.

$50,000 DEAL FOR PROPERTY AT 1ST. MAIN

With firm faith in the future of Santa Ana as a thriving business city, the Broadway Development company today announced the purchase of the southwest corner of First and Main streets. While the company, through its president, Terry E. Stephenson, announced no purchase price, local realtors say the property is worth between $40,000 and $50,000. The property was purchased from Charles E. Morris.

The property purchased consists of 135 feet on Main street and 100 feet on First street. There is a one-story garage building on the corner, and on the south part of the property there is a two-story building which is occupied by the Biltwell Apartments.

Stephenson spoke optimistically of the future of Santa Ana as viewed by members of the Broadway Development company. The investment was made because the local company believes that there is no better type of investment than in sound, local business property, he said.

The Broadway Development company is the concern that owns the Broadway theater building and the Knights of Pythias building, the latter modern structure being located at Fifth and Broadway.

Besides Stephenson, members of the company are A. W. Rutan, W. R. Williams, P. T. Beisel, Mrs. Arthur H. Lyon, Mrs. H. T. Duckett, George S. Smith, the Huff Estate, H. L. Wakeham, Harry Spencer, Ray Lambert and Cood Adams. C. L. Pritchard is secretary?

Five Counties Represented At Vegetable Meet

Vegetable growers associations of five southern California counties were represented in a meeting held yesterday at Riverside, at which plans for the eventual formation of a state-wide marketing association were discussed.

It was determined that each of the county groups would proceed with the drawing up of by-laws for its own association, keeping them in line with the fundamental by-law plans sketched at yesterday's meeting, in order that the formation of the state group could be reached easily.

Associations of Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties were represented at the meeting. Attending from the Orange county association were Clarence Brown, chairman, S. Muracka, of Stanton, and R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

SYMPHONIES UNDER STARS OPEN JULY 16

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Hollywood Bowl's fourteenth consecutive season of Symphonies Under the Stars will open July 16 with an exceptionally fine galaxy of stars gathered together for Exposition year in the world famous amphitheater.

Eight ballets, four favorite operas in concert form, five renowned composers and noteworthy soloists will be presented during the eight weeks of concerts given every Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, according to Southern California Symphony Association which is sponsoring the Bowl events.

William Mengelberg, declared to be one of the outstanding symphony conductors in the world, is coming direct from Amsterdam to make his debut at the opening of the music classic. He will be followed by Bernardino Molinari, eminent Italian who has moved one of the most popular Bowl conductors; Ernest Schelling, celebrated American composer-conductor-pianist; Jose Iturbi, Spanish virtuoso, and Otto Klemperer, musical director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, who also is making his Bowl debut.

Soloists will include Jascha Heifetz, celebrated violinist; Helen Jepson and Jeannette Vreeland, sopranos from New York; Rose Sampton, contralto; Shelling, pianist and other singers and instrumentalists.

Following four favorite operas will be performed in concert versions: "Aida" and "Traviata" conducted by Pietro Cimlini; "Lohengrin" directed by Richard Lert formerly of the Berlin State Opera, and Alexis Corodansky conducting "Eugene Onegin."

EXECUTIVE BOARD MEMBERS NAMED AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

Announcement was made today of the selection of commissioners to serve on the Santa Ana Junior college executive board for the fall semester by Charles Roemer, recently elected Associated Students president.

Betty Lee, recently elected president of the Women's Athletic association, automatically became commissioner of women's athletics. She is a member of Las Meninas service club and a freshman student.

Mary Lou McFarland, Spangler president, was appointed social commissioner for the fall term. Al Markel, Bachelor service club member and construction chairman for the Fiesta this year, will be commissioner of forensics and production. Allen Mackey, Junior Lion member, will be commissioner of men's athletics.

Although official recommendations and acceptances have not yet been announced, it is expected that John Babe, Buccaneer member, will become El Don representative and Edna Wilson, Moav member, will be Del Ano representative as editors of those publications.

The executive board is completed with the officers elected by the Associated students, who are Roemer, president; Walter Banick, vice president; Louise Sexton, secretary; and Charles McWaters, treasurer.

The board is now making plans to make the Associated Student membership tickets compulsory for junior college attendance next year. The plan now under action is to reduce the price from $7 to $6.

MASS MEET TO BE HELD TUESDAY BY PENSION CLUBS

C. J. Caldwell, of Whittier, will be the speaker at the mass meeting of Townsend clubs scheduled for Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Laguna Beach Community church. It was announced today by D. A. Cox, local Townsend clubs official.

The meeting is being held in order to afford an opportunity for coast line towns to hear the new developments of the movement explained. Caldwell is known as one of the ablest speakers on the Townsend staff of leaders, and was one of the first to be sent out from national headquarters, Cox said.

"grin" directed by Richard Lert formerly of the Berlin State Opera, and Alexis Corodansky conducting "Eugene Onegin."

UNDER CLASSES ARE INVITED TO SENIOR PLAY

Juniors and sophomores of the Santa Ana High school will have an opportunity to see the 1935 senior class day play, "Big Hearted Herbert" Wednesday, June 12. According to the announcement made known today, these arrangements were made because of limited seating capacity of the Willard auditorium.

The play, a three act comedy by Sophie Kerr and Anna Stearns Richardson, is to be headed by a cast of 13 characters. It was directed by Ernest Crozier Phillips, high school and junior college drama instructor. Cast of characters in the order of their appearance are Herbert Kainess, Bob Bradley; Robert Kainess, Franklin Guthrie; Elizabeth Kainess, Betty Jane Moore; Martha, Louise Ryle; Herbert Kainess, Muriel Hallman; Andrew Goodrich, Bill Hlawinski; Amy Laurence, Eleanor Liggett; Jim Laurence, Delbert Tucker; Mrs. Goodrich, Bernine Farmer; Mr. Goodrich, Robert Browning; Mrs. Havens, Helen Markel; and Mr. Havens, Boyd Lentz.

"Big Hearted Herbert," according to observers, promises to be very entertaining. The play is one of several which will be presented class day at the Willard Junior High school auditorium.

The stage setting was made by the stagecraft class under the direction of Miss Hazel Nell Bemus.

Workers To Meet At Irvine Park For Sunday Picnic

Workers of Orange county will gather tomorrow at Irvine park for the first annual picnic of the Worker's club of Orange county, to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Clara Lee Purdy, of Tulunga, will be the speaker. Workers from clubs in Santa Ana, Anaheim, the harbor district, Glorietta and El Modena will attend the meeting.

Workers To Meet At Irvine Park For Sunday Picnic

Workers of Orange county will gather tomorrow at Irvine park for the first annual picnic of the Worker's club of Orange county, to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Clara Lee Purdy, of Tulunga, will be the speaker. Workers from clubs in Santa Ana, Anaheim, the harbor district, Glorietta and El Modena will attend the meeting.

Mrs. Purdy is one of the leaders of the Public Works and Unemployed League, with which the Orange county clubs are affiliated. She will discuss the struggles in Los Angeles county, where more than $4,000,000 in additional relief funds has been apportioned for distribution.

She also will analyze President Roosevelt's new work relief plan, and attempt to explain the probable aid to be extended to those on relief roles in the southland under the new plan. In addition to Mrs. Purdy, a Spanish speaking worker will address the group; it was stated.

mother was a nice woman too, with fine eyes. If Michael could get a few more clients like them, the club would be on its feet. He frowned. The mortgage on the place, the old Rogers' place that he had bought so confidently last year, would fall due in September. He hadn't realized the taxes would be so high. Hadn't known about that special assessment, either. He gritted his teeth, remembering the figures as he had gone over them last night. He had pared expenses to the bone—yet the place wasn't paying. All his savings had gone into the purchase of the club. He simply had to make it go.

The bank held the mortgage, Immocek Trust and National. Michael was going down tonight to see about it. See if he couldn't get a renewal.

He went through the shabby portion of the village that was just west of the railroad tracks. The old red brick station with a modern background of up-to-date landscaping lay bathed in a wash of clear late sunshine. Every spear of grass stood separately apart and every single petal in the round beds was blazed in the round. Several stout, weary women with little children in tow sat idly on the benches in the station park. In front of the scarlet painted gas station across the road three or four shirt-sleeved men sat tilted back in kitchen chairs. Otherwise the little square was deserted at this hour. A smell of frying steak and onions drifted out from the open doors of "The Old Coffee Shoppe."

The movie theater down the street had a gaudy display of blue and yellow posters, and Norma Shearer's name picked out in bulbs overhead. Michael's car turned right, off Main street, and sought a broad street sloping down to the blue water of the Sound, clearly seen ahead. This was a street of big, rather old-fashioned, pretentious houses. Before the ugliest and most pretentious in the block he put on his brakes and jumped out. There were some few hundred feet of grounds about this particular house, embowered and scalloped in a way to make a landscape artist writhes. There were rhododendrons, their dark, glossy leaves rich and thick, banked in the background. There were evergreens of every conceivable variety, dwarf maple trees, butterfly bushes, crowded together. The screened porch, running across the full width of the house, was crowded with wicker chairs and tables with swinging couches. Everything was lavish and completely lacking in taste.

Michael rang the bell and a someone has all the time—

"Listen to the man! Of course, he isn't. That's what I've been trying to tell you! And I tried to get you on the telephone all evening but no one answered..."

"Funny, I've been there—"

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

Michael said, with his ingenious, masculine air of sticking to the facts. "Well, anyway, you're here now, and what do we do about it?" Sally demanded brightly. "I'm terribly sorry, but it wasn't my fault, and Father is probably right—he says I'd never make a business woman. What do you think?" she demanded ingenuously.

She was all scent and color and femininity in her delicate freckle of pale pink lace. It was delectably cute, a dinner frock—and Sally's charms were naively displayed in it.

"I think he's probably right," Michael said soberly. "Then they both broke into a great shout of laughter! The sober-faced maid, picking up scattered newspapers in the study, just beyond the porch windows, straightened with a grim smile.

"So she has a new one," this woman murmured to herself. Sally went on after a moment, as if to herself, "Would you be an angel and take me down to the Blue Sky club tonight? Lenny Raikes—that's the boy who was coming over from Scarsdale—well, he has an impacted tooth or something and can't come. And I have Father's card and I was just dying to go..."

Michael looked down at his tweeds dacked at her. His smile was a little wry. He lifted his shoulders in the ghost of a shrug. "Oh, don't be a donkey! It's the kind of place where you don't have to dress if you don't want to. Look they're having a beauty contest or something later on tonight. That Classy Malotte—you know who she is—is to be there. I'm dying to see her."

"Not the kind of a place for a kid like you."

"Oh, Michael, don't be so stuffy!" She made him feel like a maiden aunt. "If Father belongs to the darned thing I guess I rate it. Besides, you'll take good care of me, won't you?" Her smile was provocative. Michael wanted, for an instant, to shake her. But she was friendly, he told himself. Like a cuddlesome little kitten, almost. Not all the people around here were really friendly.

"Besides, I can sign checks," Sally rattled on, as if with pure artlessness. "Don't think I'm dragging you into a gyp joint. Specially when you told me about your mortgage and all. Why, Michael, I think you're perfectly wonderful."

She had her hand on his arm. She was all gentleness and winning sweetness. Yet Michael hesitated.

BOOK REVIEWS

There is No True, a Life of Thomas Mott Osborne, by Rudolph Chamberlain.

Thomas Mott Osborne was a pioneer in prison work and today, when so many of his theories, starting when first promulgated, have been widely accepted and put into practice, the average reader who approaches this book does not realize the storm which raged around Thomas Mott Osborne in New York State while he was alive.

The reverberations of that controversy thunder loudly even today, as for example after a recent Auburn prison break described in the epilogue of the book, "Following the break there was much shouting," says the author, "The inmates taking part resolved unanimously into two voices. On the one side they said 'If Tom Osborne had been alive, there would have been no riot.' On the other side they said: 'If it had not been for Tom Osborne and his mollycoddling of prisoners, there would have been no riot. There was the issue clearly drawn, even though presented in an exaggerated and inaccurate form... in death, as in life, he lifted men out of indifference to heights of enthusiastic indorsement or bitter denunciation.'"

Osborne was a gentleman reformer. He was sensitive, gracious, a conversationalist of infinite charm who could draw on a vast store of classic and modern culture for his themes.

Other books have presented Thomas Mott Osborne, emphasizing his prison activity. This book presents the many-sided individual. He was a sponsor of Wagner, when to sponsor Wagner music was daringly radical; he was a devoted father; he was an adventurer; he was active in politics; he was a business man.

One of the most interesting episodes told in the book is an event which befell Thomas Osborne's father. His firm had won a suit over infringement of patent against the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. and was to be paid $225,000. When he went to Chicago to collect the money he was given an appointment for night at the McCormick factory.

"At the appointed time he was met and conducted to the factory, situated in a tough section near the railroad. As they passed through the dingy streets, Osborne saw strange figures lurking in the shadows. All the sordidness and crime of a great city seemed pent up in these few blocks already astir as creatures of the night went their mysterious ways."

The factory was forbidding in the unworldly silence of night. He stumbled up the stairs into a little office. The McCormick people took out a sheaf of bills from a safe and gave them to him. Osborne was dismissed. He put the money into a satchel and started away alone. Outside he found himself in Chicago's notorious Tenderloin with nearly a quarter of a million dollars in greenbacks. It occurred to him that it might be premeditated.

They were going to murder him and get their money back. "Late that night an old man stumbled into the hotel. His face was ashen and he was trembling so that he could barely stand. In his hand he clutched a little black bag and would let no one touch it. 'The terrible ordeal of that night wrecked Osborne. His health was broken. He never recovered from the shock of that experience.'"

The book is a complete life of the many-sided man, Thomas Mott Osborne.

Catherine, The Portrait of an Empress, by Gina Kaus published by the Viking Press.

This biography of Catherine has been translated from the German. It has the German characteristic of thoroughness. It is, however, delightfully readable. But if it were not a solecism one might say that the book is "dated". The biography of an historical character can hardly be properly called "dated". Nevertheless there have several excellent biographies of Catherine been written, and in the reading world should be familiar with facts of her interesting personality. But if one delves in dwelling upon the peculiarities of her marriage relationship with Peter, to which considerable space is given, here is another opportunity to do it. To most people who read it before, however the details pall.

This is not to say that this is not a commendable book, merely that some among us have wearied for the time being, of reading about Catherine.

Dew in April by John Clayton. Published by Claude Kendall and Willoughby Sharp.

"Dew in April" is an historical romantic adventure which is set in Provence in the early thirteenth century. It is the story of Dolores, a girl of unknown parentage, who traveled with a band of moving players until she was cast out by them and discovered sleeping among some Roman ruins adjacent to the convent of St. Lazare. She was discovered by two novices and taken in by Mother Leonor, in spite of the fact that she brought to the convent no substance, but only herself, and a very troublesome self she proved to be. In fact, to the simple nuns it seemed that a devil was let loose in the convent after the coming of Dolores. Dolores was lovable, intelligent, daring, in short not easily held in the narrow routine of convent life.

Knights were bold in those days and a young man with golden hair discovered Dolores and stormed the convent walls to get her. The lover's naturally difficult lot was made terrible by Father Sebastian whose cruel fanatical piety bordered on insanity. Jealous of the lovers, as well as spurred by his religious zeal, he tried to bring about the death of Pedro by torture which took the form of slow starvation and Dolores of burning at the stake as a witch by a maddened mob of Carcassonne.

The story moves slowly in the first pages. The customs of the convent are recounted in detail, the common tales of the period are told. But it combines to give a prospective of the period and a very adequate background for the lively and daring romance of Dolores and Pedro.

There is Hilarius, friend of Pedro, a monk who was cellarer at the monastery where the brethren of his order lived. After his death his brethren brought him home from Carcassonne, where he had been killed, and buried him as he had wished to be buried—standing erect, with his face toward the vineyard. They had but to dig a very little deeper than if they had laid him to rest on his back. Then arose the question of his epitaph, over which the good brethren held many a chapter, but could not agree. "Some were for carving on the stone his last recorded words—'Courage, my heart! There are still vines on the hills.' Others wished to quote one of the soldiers who were present at his death: 'Folk say he lived like a pig, but we saw him die like a hero of the ancient world.' But his end was not the whole of Hilarius. Little Theodore, to whom he had left that disquieting work of Naso, the Paradisus Angelorum, was eloquent in favour of the significant words he had found, scrawled in Hilarius's laborious list, on the flyleaf: 'Al quomodo talibus effugiam? Ad Missam enim, in ipso penitentie ritu, lucide mihi surgunt antequam favucae, nympharum amores, proelia virum, armorum clangor, nenia, epithalamium.' This surely made their cellarer too much of a pedant. In the end they hammered out an epitaph of their own, which should express that was Hilary and send him down to posterity with a chuckle out of his own heart... which may be roughly Englished thus:

"O passer-by,
If thought a she,
Then fly, o fly!
For here doth lie
One Hilary,
A monk—
Still drunk."

The book is refreshingly unique and will be a delight to anyone not in too much of a hurry to read it with sufficient deliberation to catch the spirit.

BECAUSE

Because I drank the bitter drops of gall
That drip from disappointment and despair;
Because I know the pungent fruits that fall
Into life's dish, the seeds of ache and care;

Because I felt the blows of selfishness
And pride, the fangs of greed, its sister hate;
Because I met poverty, strain and stress
I also know how to appreciate.

Because I hungered much on lonely ways
And trudged the swampy roads on moonless nights;
Because I thirsted so from scorching days
I know how to esteem true love's delights.

Because I ever reached for sun and sky
And always sensed the flowers and the dew;
Because I visioned so, dear heart, that's why
You came, and I shall always worship you.

WARRIOR

He is no soldier in a uniform
Nor does he bear a gun with bayonet.
He is not called upon to charge and storm
The foe, nor to be graced with epaulet.

He is a fighter but of different kind
And marches many burdened miles each day
And dreams of his beloved left behind
Who watch with yearning while he is away.

He fears no bullets of a foreign make
And seldom meets with barbed entanglement.
There are no lines or dugouts he can take
But every camp looms up belligerent.

He fights with every chance of hope destroyed.

LAUGH FILM AND DRAMA AT WALKER STATE

A rousing comedy and a problem drama are combined on the double feature program at Walker's State theater for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

They are "Big Hearted Herbert" with Guy Kibbee and Aline McMahon, and "Wednesday's Child," the story of the heartaches of a boy whose parents are divorced.

The comedy is based on a story by Sophie Kerr and in addition to the affairs of the principal characters as husband and wife, presents a charming romance concerning Patricia Ellis and Phillip Reed. Their love runs a rough road in the shape of the objection of Kibbee as an ill-natured father and self-made man, who is finally tamed by his wife through a dose of his own medicine. The cast also includes Helen Lowell, Robert Barrat and Hale Hamilton.

"Wednesday's Child" brings 12-year-old Frankie Thomas as the boy whose parents, Edward Arnold and Karen Morley, are divorced, with the court awarding the boy to his mother eight months of the year and to the father the other four months. The mother marries another man and tries to make a home for the boy but he is very unhappy and longs for his father who goes to his father, the boy finds him preparing to marry again and the realization that his chance for love and care is again slipping away shocks the boy so that a serious illness results. The parents, thinking only of their own future finally determine to send the lad to military school, but the problem is not solved until the father realizes what the boy needs and learns the tragedy of being ignored by the son he himself has put aside.

Newest of the Dashiell Hammett thrillers to come to the screen is "The Glass Key," starring George Raft and Claire Dodd, which comes to the Broadway next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In this successor to the phenomenally popular "Thin Man," Raft plays the part of another of the popular Hammett heroes, close mouthed, hard fisted and snappy. The picture blends romance, drama, love interest and a corking murder mystery, to furnish real entertainment, it is said.

Edward Arnold, as the city's political boss, plays a prominent role in the picture. Raft is ably supported by Miss Dodd, Rosalind Keith and Charles Richman.

Occupying the Broadway screen with "The Glass Key" is "Party Wire," starring Victor Jory and Jean Arthur, newest of Hollywood's romantic teams. Dealing with life in a typical Midwestern small town, the picture tells what happens when telephone wires and life-lines are crossed in the every day humdrum of the village's existence.

Jory is cast as the town's most eligible bachelor, who returns after a seven years' absence to take charge of the family industries, backbone of the town. Jean Arthur plays a girl who plucks his "hard-to-get" girl, who furnishes the difficulties that provide the picture's theme.

Completing the program are a Krazy Kat cartoon, "The Peace Conference," a travelogue, "Dixieland," and a news reel.

Theatergoers in Santa Ana and Orange county will have the last opportunity to see Gary Cooper's new starring picture, "The Virginian," when it shows at the Broadway theater tonight for the last time.

Three outstanding stars are featured with Cooper in the film. These are Walter Huston, who plays the part of a swaggering bully and bad man; Richard Arlen, Cooper's cowboy friend, and Mary Brian, who furnishes the feminine romantic interest.

The picture is said to be an unusually realistic adaptation of the famous American classic which has been read and enjoyed by millions.

"Les Miserables" motion picture version of the famous classic, will open at the West Coast theater on Tuesday, June 18, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain. Frederic March has the leading role in this

MYSTERY, LOVE NEW O'BRIEN DRAMA TO OPEN HERE THURSDAY FILM TO OPEN HERE SUNDAY

"The Casino Murder Case," a thrilling new mystery drama, and "Break of Hearts," a romantic drama, will open an engagement of five days at the West Coast theater starting Thursday.

A third distinctive portrayal of Philo Vance, S. S. Van Dine's famous fictional detective, is brought to the screen by Paul Lukas in "The Casino Murder Case," which, rather than being a purely dramatic mystery, is an unusually humorous yet mystifying story with rapid-fire action and sparkling dialogue suggestive of the tempo of "The Thin Man," one of the year's outstanding pictures.

Funny moments in the film are assured by the fact that Allison Skipworth is prominently cast. Others who have prominent roles include Donald Cook, Rosalind Russell, Arthur Byron, Ted Healy, Eric Blore, Isabel Jewell and Louise Fazenda. The story concerns the solution of a series of unusual poison mysteries which involve the use of the newly discovered "heavy water."

"Break of Hearts" co-stars Katharine Hepburn and Charles Boyer in a throbbing love story, powerful and inspiring, which tells its own story of love and self-sacrificing devotion. The picture, set to an exciting theme, reflects all of the color and glamor of New York and Europe. The film tells the story of a young composer who marries a famous maestro but leaves him when she believes that her love is no longer necessary to him. His plunge to the depths of despair and his regeneration through her love, make enthralling romance.

Short subjects on the program include a color cartoon, "Mertie Kittens;" an Easy Aces comedy, "Some Bridgework," and World News events.

UNUSUAL WAR FILM TO SHOW AT STATE

An exceptional film, "The First World War," will shown at Walker's State theater next Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced today by Manager Vic Walker.

The picture brings many official photographic scenes of the great war which previously have been held in sealed archives, Walker said, and was edited by Laurence Stallings, whose book by the same title amazed the world.

Sensational and hitherto unscreened pictures of the important battles of the war, both on land and sea, and a great variety of glimpses of life behind the lines, are included in this film, accompanied by the biting comments of Stallings, Walker said.

The second picture on the double program is "A Lost Lady," with Barbara Stanwyck, from the novel by Willa Cather. It is a dramatic romance portraying the emotions of a young woman torn between loyalty to her husband and her love for a man with whom she is madly infatuated. The cast includes Frank Morgan, Ricardo Cortez, Lyle Talbot, Philip Reed and Hobart Cavanaugh.

The program for next Friday and Saturday brings George O'Brien Dorothy Wilson and Paul Kelly in the Harold Bell Wright story, "When a Man's a Man."

Selected short subjects on the program include an Allen Jenkins comedy, "Get Rich Quick;" a chimpanzee novelty, "No Motor to Guide Him;" a color cartoon, "A Cat, a Mouse and a Bell," and World News events.

The gaucha is a roistering, hard riding sentimental fellow, inseparable from his horse, quick to fight and quick to forgive, careless in his love making but tender and chivalrous to the weaker sex.

Cast opposite Baxter is Ketti Gallian, the French star who scored so heavily in her first American appearance in "Marie Galante." She is cast as the Parisian cabaret singer over whom the gaucha becomes enamored through an unexpected encounter in an air wreck on the lonely pampas.

Outstanding among books of the past year, "Oil for the Lamps of China," starring Pat O'Brien and Josephine Hutchinson, which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow for a three-day run, promise to be outstanding among pictures of this year.

The scene for this stirring picture of a great oil concern and the exploitation of Chinese fields are laid in the Orient, including the snow-swept plains of Manchuria, Peking, Shanghai and the interior. The picture was more than a year in the making, for atmospheric shots were taken in Manchuria, a year before a camera crank was turned at the studio.

Pat O'Brien, in his role of an American fired with enthusiasm to make good with his company, and to bring light to China by the way of lamps and oil, at last is given his big opportunity, and is said to excel even his dynamic performance in "The Front Page," which made cinema history.

Josephine Hutchinson portrays the girl Pat married, and who in the end saves him from being cast aside by the company in whose service he had spent a lifetime of work. Leading roles are also taken by Joan Muir, John Eldridge, Lyle Talbot and Arthur Byron.

Short subjects will include a new Pete Smith novelty, "Chain Letter Dimes," a Silly Symphony cartoon, "Water Babies," and news.

Warner Baxter's new picture, "Under the Pampas Moon," in which the popular star has created a screen role more dramatic and romantic than his famous "Cisco Kid," opens an engagement of five days at the West Coast theater today.

In this new picture Baxter takes the part of a South American gaucha, a cowboy of the great plains of the Argentine republic. A nomad, a descendant of the bandit crews which roamed the pampas and raided villages before the railroad and civilization arrived, the gaucha is part Spanish and part Indian, controlled now but not tamed.

The gaucha is a roistering, hard riding sentimental fellow, inseparable from his horse, quick to fight and quick to forgive, careless in his love making but tender and chivalrous to the weaker sex.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1935

Visitors From North
Take Part in Local Festivities

Spending a two weeks' vacation in this city, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Albright and little daughter, Barbara Jean of Berkeley, have taken part in two events of special interest, the latest of which was a celebration of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. Albright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Albright, 718 South Sycamore street.

Sharing honors with the Santa Ana couple were Mrs. Albright's mother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Abell of Los Angeles, who observed their 25th wedding anniversary. Their daughter, Miss Alma Louise Abell of San Luis Obispo was unable to be present for the event, which was the fourth joint celebration held by the Albrights and the Abells.

Quantities of flowers sent in by friends were used in decorating the rooms. Mrs. Zoe Sumner played piano solos including "Serenade" (Schubert), the same selection which was played as an organ number for the wedding of the hosts 40 years ago in the Methodist church at Thorold, Can. Lewis P. Abell and Mrs. Anna Allen of Santa Ana, present for the celebration had attended the bridal couple as best man and maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Albright made their first home in Rochester, N. Y. They came to Santa Ana nearly 20 years ago.

The program for the celebration included "I Love You Truly," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" and other solo numbers by Mrs. George A. Warner, Mrs. Albright's cousin, Mrs. Violet Venn of Orange, gave two original poems, "The Wedding of the Flowers" and "The Old Blue Shawl." Mr. and Mrs. Albright sang two old-time duets, "When the Roses First Appear" and "Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast."

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Albright and Miss Barbara Jean Albright. Others present, with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Albright and Mr. and Mrs. Ethel Brignell, George Brignell and Lester Parmenter, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Newkirk, Whittier; Dr. and Mrs. George A. Warner and daughter, Jean, Mrs. F. W. Wieseman, Mrs. Anna Allen, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Guthrie, Miss Margaret Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Saunby, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Theil, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Estes, Mrs. Zoe Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gardner, Santa Ana.

Earlier Event
Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Albright brought together a group of Harold Albright's former classmates at California Institute of Technology for an annual reunion in their home. Pink and lavender sweet peas and roses provided decorations for a dinner party.

Completing the group were Messrs. and Mesdames Howard Devoll and son, Kenneth, Arthur H. Gray, William R. Woodruff, Allen Trench, Los Angeles; Howard A. Barrows, Santa Ana.

During their southern stay Mr. and Mrs. Howard Albright are spending some time in San Diego at the exposition.

Convention Reports
Given for Pioneer
Club

Reports on the recent department conclaves held at Modesto by G. A. R. and affiliated patriotic orders, were given Thursday afternoon at a monthly meeting of Sedgewick W. R. C. Pioneer club. The affair was held in the George Spangler home, 623 North Ross street, with Mrs. Dora Spangler as hostess.

Opening features of the meeting were conducted by Mrs. Abbie Vandermast and Mrs. Annie Arnold, chaplain and patriotic instructor. Group singing was led by Mrs. Estelle Grey.

Mrs. Sarah Alford, who has attended many of the organization's conclaves during the past 50 years, referred to the recent convention as one of the most worthwhile of all. She lauded a member of the Pioneer club, Mrs. Estelle Grey, past department president, who presided over the Modesto event.

Other reports were given by Mrs. Grey and by Mrs. George Mosbaugh. The latter, club president, was in charge of a short business meeting.

In serving refreshments, her granddaughter, Miss Medora Smith the hostess had assistance of Mrs. George Spangler and Thomas Carlyle.

Present were Mesdames George Mosbaugh, Helen Aubin, Hannah Huntington, Eugenia Harvey, Margaret Culver, Elizabeth McLeod, Mary Ramsdell, Abbie Vandermast, Rose Diers, Marietta Birkhead, Sarah Alford, Beatrice Hosler, Estelle Grey and the hostess, Mrs. Dora Spangler.

Plans were made to have the next meeting Wednesday, July 3, in the home of Mrs. Grey.

Rising Young Scientist
Wedded to
Pretty La Canada Girl

Many guests from Santa Ana and vicinity were among the hundred or more friends assembling last night in the lovely garden of the Manuel Silverio Lopes home, 1044 Fairview Drive, La Canada, for the al fresco rites which united in marriage, Miss Catherine Lopes, daughter of the home, and Jackson Kuhn, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kuhn of this city.

Standing out from the ornamental planting of the garden, was a bower of roses, scene of the ceremony conducted by the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brounger, pastor of Glendale First Baptist church. There was an appropriate musical program including the conventional wedding marches, cello solos by Mrs. Verne Waymire accompanied by Mrs. Walter H. Righter, formerly Norma Forman of Santa Ana, and vocal solos, "O Promise Me" (De Koven) and "I Love You Truly" (Carrie Jacobs Bondy) by Miss Diane Lamoreaux.

It was to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin that Miss Lopes paced across the garden to the rose bower on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown, whose long skirt swept the grass, was of white linen lace and she wore a rose point bridal veil caught with orange blossoms. The roses and gardenias of her bridal bouquet were showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Frederick Bowden (Margaret Lopes) was her sister's maid of honor, gowned in apple green organza and carrying Tallman roses and pansies. Similar smart organza frocks were worn by the bridesmaids, daffodil yellow for Miss Sue McCulla, who carried yellow roses and blue delphiniums, and shell pink for Miss Mercedes Cass, whose flowers were pink roses with blue delphiniums.

Dr. T. W. Kyddson assisted Mr. Kuhn as best man and Frederick Bowden and Walter H. Righter, ushers.

For the reception which followed, Mr. and Mrs. Lopes and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kuhn joined the receiving line. Mrs. Lopes was gowned in blue lace and Mrs. Kuhn in pale green. Both wore gardenia corsages. The new Mrs. Kuhn presided over cutting her bride's cake before she and Mr. Kuhn left for a motor honeymoon. She traveled in a silk linen suit of beige and blue, with dress accessories in brown tones.

A corsage of gardenias completed her smart appearance. She tossed her bridal bouquet into the circle of friends and it was caught by Mrs. Sue McCulla.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn will be at home to their friends after the first of July, at 623 North Adams street, Glendale.

Among guests from this community at the wedding in addition to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kuhn, were Mr. and Mrs. David Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ostertag, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baxter, Miss Margaret Baxter and Miss Mary Jackson (cousin of the groom), Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Watkins, Balboa; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Holte and son Donald, Fullerton, cousins of the bridegroom present included Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Kyddson of Paso Robles, and Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Kyddson of Linden.

Jackson Kuhn is a graduate of California School of Technology, Pasadena, whose career in the world of science is being watched with interest by his Santa Ana friends.

Hospitality Precedes
Departure for Guam

Mrs. Elizabeth Keen and Miss Josie Edwards, 319 South Birch street, were co-hostesses at a surprise handkerchief shower Wednesday night in compliment to their house guest, Mrs. Wilson Dietrich. Mrs. Dietrich left Thursday from San Pedro to join Mr. Dietrich in Guam where he preceded her by several weeks and where he will be stationed with the U. S. marines for the next three years.

Conversation and music interested the group during the evening. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the two hostesses.

Present in addition to Mrs. Dietrich, honor guest, were Mrs. Keen, Miss Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Redmon, Mrs. William McKay, Mrs. Gladys Oberlin, Mrs. Martha Parker, Mrs. Blanche Roepke, all of this community; Mrs. Thetis Greenhaigh, Orange.

Among those who accompanied Mrs. Dietrich to the boat today were Mrs. Martha Parker, whose husband is at Manila with the U. S. government. Mrs. Parker expects to join him within the next month.

expressly for the ceremony.

Leaving the Wee Kirk to the strains of Mendelssohn, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hill paused for a quiet moment in the little prayer garden before seeking the terrace for a brief reception. Mrs. Hill, wearing blue and white sheer crepe, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hill in blue and white sheer crepe, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hill in blue and white sheer crepe, joined the receiving line.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left later for a few days' Southland trip, the bride traveling in a hand-knitted suit in Spanish green with brown accessories. They will spend one day in Santa Ana with Mr. Hill's mother before leaving for San Francisco to sail June 14 on the President Hoover for three months in the Orient. This delightful honeymoon trip is the wedding gift of the engraving firm in Los Angeles for which Mr. Hill is sales manager in the school annuals department.

Ninth Graders Honor
Incoming Students

More than 250 students took part in a reception held yesterday afternoon at Julia Lathrop junior high school, with members of the low nine class complimenting incoming low seventh grade boys and girls.

The affair was held shortly after 1 o'clock, with Mrs. Iva Webber, vice principal, in charge. Miss Betty Henderson, who had arranged the program, played piano solos. There were readings by the Misses Margaret Nelson and Violet Wyckoff.

The Misses Nora Veal and Maurine Lake conducted the line of march. Punch was served in the cafeteria by a committee composed of the Misses Barbara Ward, Dorothy Ross, Josephine Birdsall and Alla June Bouchee.

Installation Program

Embodying the dignity, romance and beauty of Andalusia, Monday afternoon's program for Santa Ana Ebell society will serve a double purpose, as a culmination to a year of attainments under the regime of Mrs. Charles V. Davis and her sister officers, and as an augury for an equally successful term of Mrs. Fred C. Rowland and her staff.

For as the final gesture of her authority as president, Mrs. Davis will install Mrs. Rowland as her successor, relinquishing to her the pleasures and responsibilities that accrue to Ebell presidency. Mrs. Rowland will in turn present her official family before the special entertainment features of the afternoon are introduced, with Manuel Perez, exponent of Spanish dancing, as guest artist.

It will be this latter interval that dictates the Spanish motif which clubwomen will observe immediately upon entering the clubhouse. They will be ushered to seats in the auditorium by the youthful senoras and senoritas of Junior Ebell, flaunting vivid Spanish shawls and headresses. Decorations of the clubhouse and in the patio where tea will be served later, will be in charge of Mrs. Benjamin J. MacMillan, a past mistress of the art of blending colors and flowers.

Hostesses at the tea hour will be in appropriate costume, and presiding at the tables in the patio will be Mesdames Hugh Lowe, F. E. Mead, George Dunton and Harvey Gardner, all in Spanish attire.

In presenting Manuel Perez, the program committee, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. R. A. Mosher and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, have secured an artist who has created a furor throughout the Southland, scene of this season's concertizing, and throughout the United States where he has appeared in all the major cities.

Born in Granada, the artist is said to bring to his dance interpretations, all the fire, passion and temperament of the Iberian peninsula and its peoples. He has gone to the barbaric dances of wandering Gypsy tribes, and to the stately and dignified measures of sixteenth century court life for inspiration, and presents his program to the accompaniment of compositions by such masters, ancient and modern, as Albanes, DePablo and Granados.

Early Summer Brings
Events of Interest
To R. R. Lees

Mrs. L. B. Allen of the Flying V ranch, Tex., who has been visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Lees, 2141 Greenleaf street, has taken a home at Long Beach for the summer. She will be joined soon by her granddaughter, Miss Betsy Borden of Corpus Christi, Tex., a member of the Sidney Gail Borden family connected with the famous milk company.

During her visit here, Mrs. Allen was joined by her granddaughter, Miss Martha Allen Lee, for a week's stay at March Field. Miss Lee, daughter of the R. R. Lees, returned recently from a week's visit in Los Angeles with Mrs. James Waterspoon.

Miss Lee and Mrs. Lefroy Burns, 1420 South Parton street, were in the receiving line Wednesday afternoon at a garden party which Mrs. Rufus von Kleinsmid gave for graduating senior women of U. S. C., entertaining at her home at Chester Place. The two Santa Ana young women represented Orange County Trojan Women's club at the affair.

Minge-Metzgar Wedding
Invitations
Name June 22 as Date

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harvey Metzgar, 816 Bush street, have sent out cards for the wedding on Saturday evening, June 22, of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Metzgar, to Lawrence Henry Minge of Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Minge of Anaheim.

The ceremony will be conducted at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Messiah by the Rev. W. H. Hattor, rector of the church, immediately following the rites will be a reception in the Metzgar home for family friends.

Announcement of the betrothal of the young people was made quite recently at a smartly appointed tea at which Mrs. Metzgar and Miss Metzgar entertained. Small Dale Paterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Paterson, enjoyed the privilege of distributing among the guests, parchment scrolls bearing the romantic announcement. Mrs. Douglas Paterson was Miss Virginia Metzgar, a cousin of the bride-to-be.

Miss Metzgar has selected as her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Eleanor Metzgar, with Miss Margaret Cottant as bridesmaid. Mr. Minge will have his brother, Walter Minge, as best man and ushers will comprise Messrs. Joe Warner, Stanley Moses, Winthrop Gordon and Henry Tower.

Party Guests Spend
Time on Layette
Quilt

Mrs. C. M. Norman was hostess early this week at a layette shower in her home, 945 West Highland street, complimenting Mrs. Lyle Morse of this city.

Guests spent the afternoon piecing a tiny quilt. Shower gifts were placed in a pink basket whose ribbon streamers led to the bill of a large stork figure standing guard at a daintily appointed table.

Throughout the rooms, pink Cecil Brunner rosebuds had been lavishly arranged. Additional clusters of the small roses centered tables where refreshments of strawberry shortcake, whipped cream, and coffee were served. Favors furthered a pink color scheme. The hostess's daughter, Mrs. C. B. Weekly, assisted in serving.

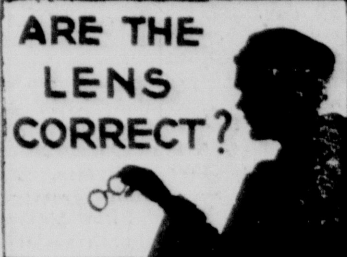

Guests of Mrs. Norman were Mesdames Lyle Morse, Trena Johnson, Hart Pennington, Bess Simmons, V. J. Anderson, Margie Boyd, Jessie Chapman, Myrtle Underwood, Della Bush, Gladys May, Elva Crawford, Viola Adams, Margaret Harding, Laura Boyd, Flora Underwood, Cora Breeding, Flora Dolbee, Ruth Lohmann, Winifred Sophia, Alice Morse, Pearl Garr, Eliola Cozad, Mary Schumacher, Enola Morse, C. R. Weekly and Miss Marjorie Chapman.

Arkansans Inspire
Dinner Event

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Meyer, Jr., were hosts at a dinner party Thursday evening in their home, 329 West Orange road. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Beach of Arkansas City, who are spending the summer at Santa Monica.

Present were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer and their daughter and sons, Mary Therese, William and Eddie Meyer; a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Montgomery; N. D. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Beach.

Seven o'clock chicken dinner was served at a lace-spread table centered with deep red sweet peas in a crystal bowl whose matching candelabra bore ruby red roses.

SOLOIST WILL GIVE PROGRAM HERE MONDAY

The First Christian church will revive its educational programs next Monday evening in the Educational building, Sixth and Birch streets, with the presentation of Graham Fain, negro baritone, in a musical program, it was announced today by the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the church.

The soloist, who comes "with the highest recommendation" from Hugo Kirchhofer, one of Southern California's leading musical directors, is described as having not only a rare singing voice, but also a group of spirituals which have seldom been presented in the West.

He will be accompanied in the concert by Juanita Terry. The public has been invited to attend the program, which is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. It was stated today by Frank Pierce, in charge of Young People's work, who has charge of program arrangements.

The Fain program, arranged in four groups of three numbers each, follows:

"Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind" (J. Sarjeant); "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" (anonymous); "Invictus" (Bruno Huhn); "Water Boy" (Robinson); "Heaven Bound" (Margaret Kirchhofer); "Travelin' All Alone." Piano selections by Juanita Terry.

"Mah Lindy Lou" (Strickland); "Black Sheep, Black Sheep" (Manney); "Shortnin' Bread" (Wolfe); "Stand Still Jerdon" (Johnson); "I Stood On the Ribber of Jerdon" (Burleigh); "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho."

MARRIAGE TO BE SERMON SUBJECT

"The Rock of Ages: Marriage," is the title of the sermon at the Unitarian church tomorrow. The institution of marriage is one of the "Personal Sources of Modern Religion," which are being traced in the series of sermons now being given for the Free Church Fellowship by its minister, the Rev. Julia N. Budlong. This sermon, apropos of the month of weddings, will be, in part, a review of three addresses by John Haynes Holmes, copies of which will be available for free distribution at the service.

"In this day of easy divorce marriage is often spoken of as a transient relationship and is regarded as one of the least dependable of the institutions of modern society. This only seems true, because so many unions which pass as marriage are not marriage in any real sense of the term. A true marriage still remains the most secure, permanent, dependable and satisfying relationship in our rickety and fluctuating world," said the Rev. Miss Budlong today.

How a true marriage can be secured; how it can be recognized; how to realize its opportunities and possibilities, will be considered in the morning's address, she said.

THE HOLY SPIRIT

Text: John 16:7-11; Romans 8:10-17, 26, 27
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson, for June 9.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The fact of the Holy Spirit, and that it helps us and works through us, is to be distinguished from the doctrine of the Holy Spirit.

One recognizes the fact of the sun. One experiences the warmth of its rays, the joy and blessedness of its light, and all that it has meant to the work of the world, especially in times before mechanical invention had enabled the world upon so large a scale to turn night into day.

But this fact of the sun, and of the sun's influence and blessing, is very different from a knowledge of the laws of light and heat. Here one enters into a realm of theory and doctrine as well as of fact. It may be said, indeed, that what the sun is to us in experience does not depend upon our knowledge of many facts concerning it.

Much of this is true concerning the Holy Spirit. Jesus emphasized this mystic working of God's spirit on the souls of men when, in His discourse to Nicodemus describing the coming of the new life, He said, "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit."

In the story of Pentecost, when the disciples were gathered together in consecration and expectation, we are told that "there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind." The mysteries of that day are not all revealed or made plain to us, but the reality of what happened there and its effect have been manifest in the world through the history of the Christian Church.

ged Cross" by James W. Nuckolls. Sunday night at the request of the Ministerial Association, the pastor will preach to the baccalaureate overflow congregation in the Spurgeon church on "Facing the Facts of Faith." There will be special music by the combined Adult and Young People's choirs at the evening service. There will be a solo by Irma Huffman May, "The Lord Is My Light" (Alltisen), The Adult and Wesleyan Fellowships, the Leagues and children's organizations will meet at 6:30 p. m.

TEMPLE THEATRE SUN. JUNE 9, 7 P. M.

The work of the Holy Spirit might be tested by these things, or we might test whether a man has really experienced the presence of the Holy Spirit by examining his life in these respects.

Has the Holy Spirit given to man a hatred of sin? Has it created in him the holy attitude of turning from sin to righteousness? And has it given him an enlightened judgment?

If a man have not these things, it might be said that a human spirit of ignorance and perverseness is more evident in his life than the presence of the Holy Spirit. Again, there is the witness of the Spirit that brings to man the consciousness that he is a child of God—a peace of soul that is the deepest and truest experience of the Christian life.

Out of this experience of the Spirit there comes a new consciousness of strength not in oneself, but through new resources of power. It was this that Paul meant when he spoke of his weakness, and of his prayer to be relieved of it, and in the answer to his prayer in the assurance "my strength is made perfect in weakness."

METHODISTS TO START UNIFIED WORSHIP PLAN

The unified service plan of religious worship will be instituted in Santa Ana tomorrow by the First M. E. church, it was made known today, with other churches expected to adopt the plan at a later date.

A Children's Day program will be conducted as part of the service, occupying the usual church school hour, under the new plan, 10:30 to 11:30 a. m. The Unified service starts at 9:30 o'clock, the hour of morning worship.

The unified service program for tomorrow is announced as follows: Organ moments; 1. Prayer; 2. prelude; introit, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple" (congregation remains seated); Invocation; the minister; hymn No. 68, "O Day of Rest and Gladness"; anthem, "Build Thee More Stately Mansions"; sermon, Dr. George A. Warner; hymn No. 508, "Take the Name of Jesus With You"; announcements; offertory, "Revolution"; benediction and choral response; postlude.

Ushers for the service will be selected from the High School departments, consisting of those who will graduate from High School next week. They will be under leadership of T. A. Winbiger.

The Children's Day program follows:

Proclamation and songs, by Cradle Roll, Beginners, Kindergarten and Primary departments; 1. "Happy Children's Day"; 2. "Children's Day"; baptismal and reception of new members; solo, "My Beautiful Doll," Carolyn Davis, accompanied by Olive Schweitzer; Japanese operetta, by the Primary department; scripture memory work, by the Junior department; solo, "Suffer The Little Children," Margaret Davies; girls' vocal selection, directed by Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh; "Methodism Aids Education," Miss Jeannette Lutes; offering for educational fund; benediction; postlude.

Children's Day Program To Be Given At Church

The Children's Day program at the United Presbyterian church, scheduled for 11 a. m. tomorrow, was announced today, as follows: Organ prelude; processional, "Hosanna! Be the Children's Song;" song by Beginners' department; greetings to the cradle roll, Bobby Dean Smiley; children's day in song, primary department; reading, Ruth Cowdrey; pansy song, Marjorie Johnston and Jean Woodward; "Little Girl in India," Betty Jean Bruce; exercise, Miss Johanna Eilers and Junior department; solo, "That Sweet Story of Old" (Bradbury); Miss Verna Helm; offertory prayer, Barbara McFadden; offertory, "La Patrouille," piano and organ duo, David Craighead and T. H. Warner; children's sermon by the minister; intermediate choir; postlude.

FUTURE OF U. S. SUBJECT OF BIBLE LECTURE

"What's Next After $4,800,000,000? Whither Bound America?" is the lecture title announced by Evangelist B. R. Spear at the Temple theatre for Sunday night.

"Bible prophecy knows," said the evangelist, "and it is this that makes the present situation the most gripping and absorbing of anything on earth. No one fully realizes the far-reaching results in the present crisis of the ages."

Data that is up to the minute is promised. At 7 o'clock, the Valencia male chorus and the Orange County Choral society will combine in a program of sacred music. Extensive preparation has been made for this service. At 8:30 Evangelist Spear speaks over KREG on the subject, "The Last Event of This World."

The next meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Adventist church at Fifteenth and Sycamore streets, the subject being, "The Holy City, The New Jerusalem."

Beginning Thursday, June 13, Evangelist Spear will attend the annual 10-day campmeeting to be held at Arlington, as one of the speakers. A permanent tabernacle is being rushed to completion, with a seating capacity of 4500. It is this that has brought the Temple theatre meeting to so early a conclusion, he said.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

THE AGONY AT GETHSEMANE

"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And He took with Him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy. Then saith He unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death; tarry ye here, and watch with Me. He went a little further, and fell on His face, and prayed. And He cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter: What, could ye not watch with Me one hour? Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O My Father, if this cup may not pass away from Me, except I think it, Thy will be done. And He came and found them asleep again; for their eyes were heavy. And He left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words. Then cometh He to His disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest; behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us be going; behold, he is at hand that doth betray Me. And while He yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people."—Matt. 26: 30-47. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

"Oh, I love ten pins," Scouty said. "I'd rather play that game than any other I know of. I am good, I will admit."

"But, first, I would suggest that we just watch the game as we can see if they are really any good, when they are playing it."

"That's fair enough," a gnome replied. "You Tinymites stay on the side, and don't get in the way of any balls that may throw."

"I will thrill you as they whiz right past. You see, we always throw them fast. You cannot get a good score when you roll them down too slow."

Then, to the ten pin spot they ran, and Coppy cried, "Say, gnomes, I can be of some help by setting up the pins that you knock down."

"I think it will be lots and lots of fun to place them on the spots. I'd have wee Duncy help me, but he's such an awful clown."

"I know he wouldn't place them right, and, anyway, I fear he might be injured by a flying pin. I'll do the job alone."

"Be just as patient as can be, 'cause this is rather new to me. Gee! Watch me jump out of the way, each time a ball is thrown."

And then the pins began to spill. To all the bunch, it was a thrill to see the gnome get all excited as the game progressed.

Soon, one gnome cried, "Hurray for me! I knocked them all down, as you see."

"I will not be a bit surprised if my game is the best."

Stories in STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

A LAWRENCE OF THE CONGO

IN the United States, Sir Henry Morton Stanley is known as the soldier of fortune and newspaperman who was given the assignment to find David Livingstone, the explorer lost in the jungles of Africa, and who rescued Livingstone from the savage natives. But in Belgium, Stanley is the man who, on a later voyage, made friends of the Congo valley tribes, established trading posts for European governments and obtained nearly 4000 concessions of land from chiefs of the various tribes. These concessions he turned over to King Leopold of Belgium, as nucleus of what later became the Congo Free State under the protection of Belgium.

In commemoration of the founding of the Congo Free State, Belgium in 1928 issued this stamp in Stanley's honor.

THE "HORSE AND BUGGY" DAYS

Few statements so far uttered by the President have aroused the bitter resentment of his reference to the "horse and buggy days."

The answer that a score of people would like to give him is, "We did pretty well in those days, didn't we?"

These sarcastic remarks are the cloaks that hide great differences in economic outlook; they are two points of view that are opposed to each other.

The President takes the general position that the world is faced with the problem of regulating the production and the distribution of a great many of the essentials of life.

The man who sincerely and intelligently hails the destruction of the new deal program looks for the re-establishment of what former President Harding called "normalcy," and the individualist calls the "free competitive system."

One has as his basic philosophy and belief that in the past we have been operating on an economic basis where a scarcity of goods existed, and where the past was marked by the inability of man to supply the needs of the world. In scholarly manner they refer to it as the period that was governed by an "economy of scarcity."

The contention is advanced that today the land and machinery we possess is capable of supplying all that the world can consume, and that the development of farm and industry is such that certain sections of it are constantly threatening to produce more than can be consumed of that particular product. The term of the "economy of abundance" has been coined to apply to the new economic world that is said to confront us.

Because of the threatened abundance, which brings ruinous price cutting in its wake, the New Dealers, and all who believe like they, contend that we must regulate production, and after that, supervise the distribution of the products of both soil and factory.

Those who thoughtfully oppose the economic philosophy of the New Deal are rather contemptuous of the idea that too much of anything exists, except in a few things and this only for a very brief period. Production being carried on for profit will cease when it becomes unprofitable, and only the most un-economic lands and factories will be abandoned, they say.

The further contention is advanced that the strong units should be allowed to survive, while the weak units should be allowed to die. In any case, even though the weak are permitted to live and produce through the assistance of the strong, the time is surely coming when the burden of supporting the weak will be too great and that then they will have to pass out of the picture, according to this group.

Here in Orange county able men are divided in their opinion as to the "pro-rate." Those who believe that the production of fruit and its distribution should be regulated by law certainly subscribe to the philosophy of the New Deal, in so far as it affects their orange property.

When the same philosophy is applied to little pigs and wheat, the faith in the new order weakens, and when it is applied to labor, the new faith all but releases its hold on life.

The one school of thought subscribes to the belief that the maximum of comfort and human freedom in this new day and age is attainable only through a planned economy; and is inclined to view the increasing size of business units as a new form of economic slavery.

The other maintains that unless a man is free to use his property as he sees fit, he is not really free. It says that a planned economy leads inevitably to a regimented society, in which we shall all lose our freedom.

Seldom have such few words hidden such a divergence of opinion, and it is freely predicted that the economic views, so clearly divided into two groups by the President's reference to one as belonging to the "horse and buggy" days, will be the basis of the next Presidential campaign.

In any event, these two philosophies of industrial life should be faced intelligently. The decision will determine everything for the nation.

THE PASSING OF RAMSAY MACDONALD

The passing of Ramsay MacDonald from the position of prime minister probably marks the beginning of his real retirement.

While there are other reasons given, yet undoubtedly it is his failing health that is the real cause behind it all.

His physical weakness is evidenced by his failing sight, and in any case the burdens and handicaps of the office have grown too great.

We can well imagine that the last few years of Ramsay MacDonald's life have not been as happy as the previous ones were. He had been the trusted leader of the Labor party for years, and in that relationship had innumerable friends.

The regard, with which he was held by the wage-earners throughout England and Scotland, was closely akin to deep and abiding love. His desertion of the party and repudiation of its position brought down upon his head intense opposition and nearly all of his former friends turned upon him.

Some of his experiences in personal relationships, since that time, have been sad indeed. To be sure, before that hour came, Mr. MacDonald had encountered opposition. This was particularly true during the war, which he openly and strenuously opposed. He was probably, for a time, the most hated man in England.

But he had the satisfaction then of having the clear approval of his conscience and judgment and the support of those with whom he had always labored. In these more recent times, after his separation from the Labor party, he must have had very considerable doubt in his mind as to his attitude, and certainly he could not change throughout in his sympathies and loyalties, to the degree that he would not feel deeply the attitude of his former comrades.

His attitude in foreign policy and his failure to take a stand as strongly on behalf of peace when he was in power, as he did in the face of war during the great conflict, disappointed many of his friends throughout the world.

Mr. MacDonald deserted the Labor party because he felt that the welfare of the nation demanded that all forces keep together at that time, to prevent what might become an actual revolution.

It may have taken more courage and heroism to have done what he did, than it did even to face the troubles which he faced during the World war.

Probably he would have been unable to have done this had not Philip Snowden joined him. Each probably aided the other to meet those personal burdens.

And Snowden, in some respects the abler of the two, went into complete eclipse in the House of Lords. He has contributed little that has been noted, at least, since that time.

We cannot help expressing the belief that history will not accord to Mr. MacDonald the high place, which he might have reached, if he had adhered to certain fundamentals more closely, as he did in his earlier life.

But he has helped mightily to steer Great Britain through a most serious period of her history. She is in better condition today to meet the future than she has been for a number of years. And probably from the local view, Mr. MacDonald's course has been fully vindicated.

The change in leadership means no serious change in policy. An able, experienced man, Stanley Baldwin, is now Prime Minister.

GERMAN FINANCIAL INDUCEMENTS FOR MARRIAGES AND CHILDREN

Germany has increased the marriage rate by granting loans to newly married couples. In the last year and a half, she has granted loans to the number of 400,736 to newly married couples.

These loans averaged 500 marks each. Now since that time, 25 per cent of the loan, for each child born of such marriage, has been cancelled. And almost half as many children have been born as there were marriages, or, to be exact, there have been 186,475 children born. And 25 per cent of the loan to each family is decreased for each child.

In other words, the birth of four children in one family cancels the loan. Now it may be possible that some families have had two children, or even three, in the case of twins once and a single child, but it is interesting to know that for the first quarter of this year, the number of children born exceeded the number of marriages.

The rate of divorce in Germany is not as great as that of the United States, but outside of our country, it is the highest in the world. This financial inducement for marriages and for children may help solve problems in Germany and Italy, but we doubt if it would seriously help things here. The high rate of divorce in the United States is not caused by poverty.

It is not the poor people who are the worst offenders in that respect.

Was It Voice of War or Voice of Peace?

San Bernardino Sun

The league of nations will claim a triumph if the affairs of Italy and Ethiopia are settled by peaceful methods. But whether the league actually prevails or Mussolini finally figures he had better keep his army available for action in Austria, the historians may some day attempt to decide.

In any event the world is pleased that Italy has accepted arbitration. It is pointed out, however, that Mussolini loses nothing by talking during the period the heavy rains make it impossible for his army to operate in East Africa.

Great Britain and France made it emphatic they do not want the Italian army running around in Africa. The British have two motives; they do not want Italy to increase its prestige in East Africa, and they want the Italian army handy in Europe. The latter is also the French motive, for France is equally concerned with Italy that Hitler not reach across the border and annex Austria.

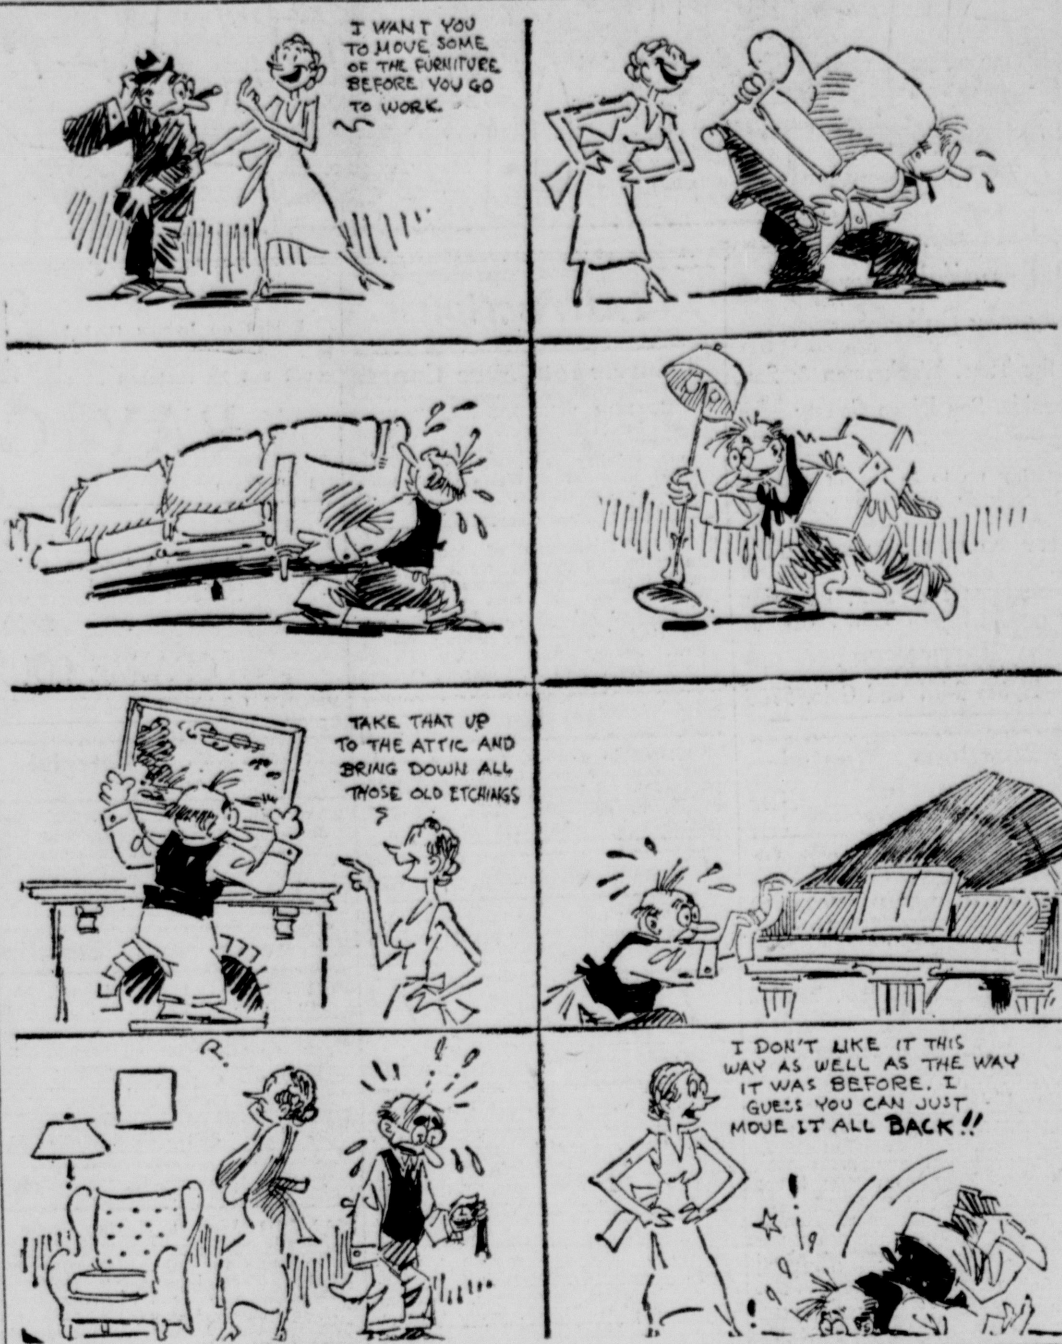

The delay in the clash between Italy and Ethiopia pleases the friends of the league of nations. The New York Times points out:

As conceived by Woodrow Wilson, the League of Nations' most valuable contributions to world peace were the discussion and delay to which signatory powers pledged themselves before a resort to war. When that discussion, as in this instance, is fortified by the process of arbitration, in conformity with a treaty pledging two nations to solve their problems in this way instead of by force of arms, the office and influence of the League are great. They justify its existence, make it indispensable in a nervous world and repel the criticisms and sneers of its enemies and the advocates of insular or war-like policy.

Nevertheless the critics of the league of nations will continue to ponder as to the real motive for Mussolini's acceptance of the appeals of Great Britain and France. It is not so long, it should be remembered, since the league failed miserably in its effort to persuade Japan to obey the rules of the league in respect to its relations with China.

Has the league been successful with Mussolini or was his acceptance of arbitration dictated by more powerful reasons, to-wit, the uncertainty as to when Hitler plans to lead the big parade to the battle grounds?

SPRING MADNESS

I have oiled up the vacuum cleaner
I have taken the furnace apart.
Exceedingly clean
Is the sewing machine.
And the stove is a joy to my heart.
And, when I had finished these labors
I filled up the old fountain pen.
Everything is O. K.,
But I'm filled with dismay
I can't put 'em together again.

I cannot get anything started.
The coal will not run in the chute.
When I climb into bed,
From my feet to my head
I am covered with ashes and soot.
The woman who comes to do washing,
Of which there's a lot in the Spring
Informed me today
That she's going away.
She complains that the wringer won't wring.

The telephone's gone out of action.
It never produces a sound,
In the wood bin last night—
A pitiful sight
Four long missing kittens I found.
Never trust fond and fatuous poets.
Who tell you that Spring is sublime;
They are canny enough
Not to peddle their stuff
In the season called Spring-cleaning time.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

A REMINDER TO RED BAITERS

I have several times lately referred to the war now being waged by certain American newspapers and certain politicians against universities which permit a full freedom of discussion to minority as well as majority groups among its students.

For myself, the more I despise and the more I consider dangerously wrongheaded the opinions of a student group, the more I have insisted that such groups should be given the right of free discussion guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and the Federal Constitution. I have done this in the spirit of the great American tradition reflected not only in the Federal Constitution but in the writings of the truly great Americans form the very beginning of our national existence until now.

I believe with Thomas Jefferson that "It is time enough for the rightful purposes of civil government for its officers (and he might have added university presidents and newspaper publishers) to interfere when principles break out into overt acts against peace and good order."

Jefferson realized that there are risks in such freedom. "It has its evils," he admitted, "the principal of which is the turbulence to which it is subject. But weigh this against the oppressions of monarchy and it becomes nothing. Even this evil is productive of good. It prevents the degeneracy of governments and nourishes a general attention to the public affairs."

In the midst of our recurrent hysterias, we should re-read Jefferson's wise assertion, "I would rather be exposed to the inconveniences attending too much liberty than those attending too small a degree of it."

I believe with Wendell Phillips that "The community which dares not protect its humblest and most hated member in the free utterance of his opinions, no matter how false or hateful, is only a gang of slaves."

I believe with Mr. Justice Brandeis of the New York Supreme Court when, in an opinion, he says, "Although the defendant may be the worst of men, although Left Wing Socialism is a menace to organized government, the rights of the best of men are secure only as the rights of the vilest and most abhorred are protected."

I commend a reading of a dissenting opinion by the late Mr. Justice Holmes in the case of Schaefer et al. vs. United States, in which he protested the suppression of certain publications during the war as a blow at constitutional liberty of thought and expression. "Now will this grave danger end with the passing of the war," he said. "The constitutional right of free speech has been declared to be the same in peace and in war. In peace, too, men may differ as to what loyalty to our country demands, and an intolerant majority, swayed by passion or by fear, may be prone in the future, as it has often been in the past, to stamp as disloyal opinions with which it disagrees. Convictions such as these, besides abridging freedom of speech, threaten freedom of thought and belief."

Could there have been written a keener forecast of the current drive against American universities which still dare to be American enough to cherish the right of full and free discussion? Copyright, 1935, McClure Newspaper Syn.

BOSSY CHILDREN

"You be the baby. You be the nurse. I'll be the mother and tell you what to do."

"It isn't fair. You always take the best for yourself. No, I won't play if you're going to be the mother."

"What's the good of your being mother, Louise. You know you haven't any ideas."

"Is that so? Why don't you call me dumb and get through? I'm going home. Come along, Leona. We can play our own way. I'm just sick of your bossing, Mary Jane Carroll."

"All right. Go on home. See if I care. I'm going to dress up and play Lady of the Lake or Queen of Sheba. I haven't made up my mind which yet. It's according to which dress looks best on me. I'm going to take one with a long train out of my grandmother's trunk. It's too bad for you that you haven't any grand-mother's trunk or any imagination, Louise. That's one reason you can't play with me. I have imagination."

"You have cheek, you mean. All you want is to be boss. If you let me be something once in a while I'll stay. But I won't be bossed by you no matter what. So there."

The charge is just. Mary Jane Carroll is bossy toward those who are her inferiors. She is leader by right of superior endowments, and possessions such as trunks, an old attic and a barn. However her attitude lacks persuasive charm and the followers, however compliant must rise on occasion to protest against complete submergence. Hers is a precarious leadership interrupted often by strikes and feuds and periods of isolation.

Such a child's leadership is valuable to her own development and that of other children. How can it be used to better advantage? Keep her busy. Give her a bit of work that requires organization, that demands the cooperation of others for its success. If she is asked to give a play and devote the proceeds to some good cause in which she is interested, a wheel chair for the children's ward, a week in camp for a city child, she will become so eager for the success of the undertaking that she will of necessity consider the rights and feelings of her helpers. Don't take over the responsibility for any of her mistakes. If she offends her leading lady or her leading man, the burden of reconciliation is her own. Teach her that leadership has its price.

When a bossy child threatens to dominate a household and make life miserable for everybody, look about for a job for him. Let him carry responsibility. There is nothing like carrying responsibility for an undertaking. It teaches a young person understanding appreciation of those who carry the burden of the day.

Much of the intolerance of bossy people is caused by ignorance of the work that is to be done. First hand experience with it, first hand dealing with those who do the job, responsibility for the result of personal attitudes and behavior are essential to successful leadership. That is what makes the difference between a boss and a leader. One knows, the other does not.

W. C. Young was the city fire chief, serving with George E. Peters and R. S. Dickson, assistant chiefs; E. G. Glenn, president; E. E. Wood, vice president, and George E. Peters, secretary-treasurer, all elected at a meeting the previous night.

In an executive session of the board of supervisors, decision was reached to establish the detention home on Grand avenue provided the county could secure a ten-year lease on the property, owned by the city of Santa Ana.

Figures compiled by a large firm of consulting engineers indicate that motor-truck traffic increased last year from 15,600,000,000 to 16,077,000,000 ton-miles, a gain of 3.06 per cent.

One reason for the rapid increase in Diesel-powered vehicles in Great Britain is the lower tax on Diesel fuel, which is one-eighth that of gasoline.

Here and There

Adjustable hinges now available for automobiles of the sedan type permit the back of the front seat to be lowered to the level of the front and rear seat cushions. This may be used as a bed for people who spend a great deal of time of the road.

A pine block thoroughly soaked in water will easily remove all foreign matter when scraped over a windshield.

Racing a motor when starting is harmful because many points haven't had time to become thoroughly lubricated.

A wood-gas generator propels a small automobile designed in Germany. It is necessary to start the car on gasoline but after a mile of operation wood gas may be used.
